ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

ATLANTA GA., TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 15, 1875. Vol. VII---No 311

Daily Constitution.

MONDAY AFTERNOON, JUNE 14.

THE lively and interesting "Every Saturday," of Milledgeville, is not dead by any means. It took a "rest," that was all. It announces that it has "come to stay," and that nothing but old age will cause another suspension.

THE new bridge over Little river, on the Knoxville and Charleston railroad, is finished, and trains are now running regularly to Maryville. This is the upper end, it will be remembered, of our new line to Knoxville, via Marietta, Canton, Ellijay and Ducktown.

THE Atlanta News, which recently expired, made arrangements with THE CONSTITUTION to carry out its obligations to its subscribers. We do not know which to congratulate most, the CONSTITUTION or its newly acquired readers.—Cumming Clarion.

THE Atlanta Herald has changed its quarters. It has rented the Broomhead building, next door to THE CONSTITUTION, which is a considerable improvement upon the old building left. Jennings & Ashley, who formerly rented the building, have taken the one vacated by the Herald.

IF the Augusta Chronicle had taken the article on "The Telfair Family," which appeared in its Sunday paper from THE CONSTITUTION, instead of the Savannah News, it could have published it several days sooner. The article was written for THE CONSTITUTION, and the News gobbled it without adding the customary journalistic courtesy.

JUDGE A. E. TARVER, of Jefferson county, owns two thousand head of sheep, which have netted him this season, one dollar a head, besides the increase of the stock. In other words, they produced this season $2,000 worth of wool. Those farmers, who are complaining of hard times, would do well to cut out this this item and consider it thoroughly. It will do to tie to. Consult Judge Tarver, who knows.

THE Jefferson Forest News appears as full of buoyancy and promise as it could if the times were propitious for new ventures in the journalistic line. Mr. Malcolm Stafford is at the helm, backed by the "Jefferson county publishing company." Mr. Stafford has spent nearly forty years "within the precincts of a printing office," and this leads him to greet his readers in a modest and sensible manner.

SAYS the Macon Telegraph: "It was stated on the streets yesterday upon what seemed to be reliable authority, that Governor Smith has appointed Maj. Campbell Wallace, Col. W. A. Lofton and Maj Geo S. Jones, commissioners for the Macon and Brunswick railroad. There seemed to be some doubt as to whether Major Wallace would accept the commission. If the report be correct, and all the gentlemen consent to serve, the appointment will be about as satisfactory as the governor could have made." Major Wallace will certainly not accept until he is appointed, nor will the other two gentlemen. The governor has not named the commissioners. It is useless to speculate as to who they will be, or to publish a list brought in by "what seems to be reliable authority;" for the real nominees are liable to be disclosed at any hour. We prefer to wait for their names.

THE Selma Times announces the death of Col. Seaborn J. Saffold, who was widely known and highly respected in Alabama. He was born in Madison, Ga., January 12th, 1837, and in 1860 became a citizen of Alabama. After a faithful service throughout the war, he came back and devoted himself to planting, until January, 1870, when he bought an interest in the Selma Times, of which he soon became the sole proprietor. He conducted that paper fearlessly and ably, until last winter, when the inroads of a merciless lung disease compelled his retirement. He heroically bore his sufferings, with a full knowledge that only death could give him relief. His influence extended over the whole state, and for three years he presided over the Alabama press association. Stricken down in the prime of life, and in the midst of an active and honorable career, his death is greatly lamented in Selma, and wherever he was known.

THE regular Atlanta correspondent of the Augusta Constitutionalist, who is usually correct and always newsy, drops into a bad error, or rather into a whole handful of errors, when, in speaking of the Loyd-street Methodist church, he says: "Rev. Joshua Knowles, once a partner of the late Simeon Rose in the publication of the old Macon Journal and Messenger, is the regular pastor of the church." Dr. Knowles is not a Methodist, but an Episcopalian. He lives in Greensboro, and not in Atlanta. Mr. Rose's front name was Simri, and not Simeon. Dr. Knowles is not the regular pastor of any Atlanta church, but is the editor of the Greensboro Herald, and preaches occasionally at Greensboro and, we believe, at Athens. Instead of being a follower of Bishop Haven, he is as thoroughly southern as Robert Toombs or Jefferson Davis. Otherwise the quotation is essentially correct.

A BRUTE LYNCHED.

Simms Snatched From the Governor's Hands.

A Righteous Hanging.

[By Telegraph to The Constitution.]

ANNAPOLIS, MD., June 14.—A mob, composed principally of residents of Anne Arundel county, in which the recent outrage upon Miss Jackson was committed by the negro Simms, came into this city at a very early hour this morning, and proceeding to the jail demanded the keys from the jailor with the view of taking Simms out and executing him. The jailor was searched and the keys having been found, a large number of the visitors went to the cell of the negro, and finding him chained they dragged him away without releasing him from the irons, and taking him a short distance from the city, near the railroad track, hung him to a tree, where he still hangs. A large number of citizens and others have visited the place to-day to view his remains. The mob was well provided with pick-axes, crowbars and other instruments for gaining admission to the jail had they met with forcible resistance. The negro did not say a word when he was taken away. Some of the lynchers proposed taking another negro who is in jail awaiting trial for committing rape upon a colored woman, but the others demurred, and the mob was satisfied with taking Simms. A coroner's inquest will be held upon the remains to-day. Many of the lynchers were painted black, and some were masked.

TWO MORE FIRES.

How they Originated not Known.

We are again called upon to chronicle more destruction of property by the fire fiend. On Sunday morning about 3 o'clock, the alarm of fire was given. Immediately the various companies of the department were upon the ground, which proved to be the wooden buildings on Peters street, at the crossing of the Macon and Western railroad, owned and occupied by Mr. John F. Morris as a store. How the fire originated is unknown. There was some trouble experienced for want of water. Four wooden buildings were consumed. Mr. Morris occupied the buildings with the exception of one room, which was being fitted up as a meat market.

Mr. Morris had insurance with Mr. W. H. Hancock, on the buildings, $2,000; on stock of goods, $6,000; on fixtures, $300.

Almost every evil is said to have some attending good. This true there is a loss, but the buildings consumed were not ornamental or attractive, and we learn that Mr. Morris will immediately rebuild handsome brick stores.

The other fire occurred on Monday morning about 2 o'clock and originated in room 82 of Col. Tom Alexander's building, on Whitehall street, being occupied by Mr. Beau Berry as a drug store. How the fire originated is unknown. About 10 o'clock Saturday night Mr. Berry was in the store and everything was all right and safe.

His drugs and soda fount are badly damaged or destroyed. He had insured with Mr. W. D. Hancock for $4,000.

Dr. Owens, who staid in the drug store, had three cases of valuable instruments destroyed.

The building of Mr. Alexander was damaged to the extent of $500 to $1,000, no insurance.

THE NORCROSS TROUBLE.

NORCROSS, GA., June 10, 1875.

Editors Constitution: I think I can appreciate the motives which prompt you to wish all the parties to the Norcross matter to drop the subject; and it may be best for you that it should be dropped. But since you have materially changed your notice of the "Evangelist," in your issue of the 29th May, it is not best for myself and others, who signed the card denouncing as false certain statements attributed to Mr. Fackler, in that notice, that the subject should be dropped, because your qualification of the statements of Mr. Fackler, with reference to firing, etc., taken in connection with the card published by D. U. Sloan and others, puts myself and other signers of the card of denunciation before the public in a false light. Knowing as we do, that we have affirmed the truth, and believing the private statements and this last publication of the parties most interested to be a subterfuge, by which the guilty seek to extricate themselves from a troublesome dilemma, I feel that in justice to this community and the public generally, a full statement of the facts, as they really exist, should be published through your columns. It is not my desire to keep so disgraceful a matter before the public for the purpose of engendering strife, but that the unmistakable truth may be known, in order that the blame may rest where it justly belongs.

Now, I propose to state briefly the facts of the case, by first giving the grounds of the whole trouble, and then refer to your notice of Mr. Fackler, with a few words of reply to Mr. Sloan and his indorsers, then I have done with the matter.

Mr. Fackler came to our town as a Baptist preacher, and was cordially received, I believe, by every one. The people of the town, of every order, attended upon his ministry, and were anxious for his success. But from the first there were some who were not altogether willing to accept him as perfect, in consequence of the remarkable statements he made of himself, and his christian experience. To illustrate—he gave out from the pulpit that he had been a very bad man—a gambler, a drunkard, and a murderer at heart—that he had lain in the gutters of some of the western cities drunk, and was a vagabond generally. The conduct of the man while here only tended to strengthen the opinion formed of him by these parties. He would tell conflicting stories about the time and place of his conversion. At one time he was converted in Louisiana, at another in Cleveland, Ohio, and again he claimed to have gone to Cleveland as a Methodist preacher, and was there connected with the American Christian mission. Now, it is nothing strange, I think, in view of these facts, that there should be some doubt as to the purity of his motives. He continued to lower himself in the estimation of the community by his conduct toward other denominations, in efforts to proselyte them to his faith, which is the real ground of all the trouble. He and his followers, in their fanatical zeal, mistook the kindness shown them by members of other churches for a desire to join the Baptist church, and proceeding upon this idea they began a regular system of manœuvering, with the obvious purpose of proselyting any one they could approach with any hope of success. The truth of these statements is susceptible of proof by good men.

Having given the grounds of trouble, I now proceed to notice the statements published, that we may see how far they agree with the real fact: First, in reference to the statements attributed to Mr. Fackler, in your notice of him, he claims to believe he was fired at while preaching at Norcross, and that the brother of the young lady baptised by him rushed upon him with a drawn knife. Now, if he believes this, he believes it in the face of the sworn testimony of seven leading members of his church—for the seven declared upon oath before the Mayor's court, that there was no pistol fired; they thought there was at first, but on reflection they became satisfied that there was no discharge of fire-arms. This leads to the conclusion that he must have been mistaken, or that he has but little confidence in the oaths of these gentlemen. He is not satisfied with saying this much to you, and through you to the public, but he repeats it unqualifiedly to his congregations in Atlanta, of which there is proof. But suppose he is innocent in this case, which I am far from admitting, he is wilfully guilty of misrepresentation in his statements of the number converted at Norcross, as well as the number joined to the Baptist church. He reports between "sixty and seventy conversions," and "forty five or fifty united to the Baptist church." We would gladly indorse every word of this, if true, for there are many sinners here that we would like to see converted; but we are unwilling to see this statement go abroad, for we are confident that no such number has been converted, nor added to the church. Instead of the number represented there has been twenty-three or four conversions, and twenty-one or two added to the Baptist church on profession of faith, with ten by letter. Now, if you will compare these facts with the statements of Mr. Fackler, you will find a discrepancy that will require another qualification to save the "Evangelist" from being accused of circulating a falsehood. But how about those who joined other churches? There were two who joined other churches, that perhaps dated their conversion to the meeting in question. I say, perhaps, for I am not certain there are so many. He states also that the day after he was fired at there were two conversions—an old man seventy years old, and a young lady at school. I know the old man of seventy, and I know, if we may believe him, that he has never been converted. These are the facts as to this notice, with the evidence ready at any time to establish them.

Mr. Sloan appears in your columns at the request of brethren of the church for the purpose of writing a "truthful statement of the matter in defense of the motives of the 'Evangelist' as wel as the little Baptist congregation at Norcross." Now, if this were true, I am sure we would all feel under obligation to Mr. Sloan for setting us and the public right, but when we look through the article, we find it contains no statement of the matter at all, with one exception, for which I give him credit. I am surprised that he should use such language. I find first an effort at sarcasm in referring to the cards of myself, Floyd and others, and then, an implied denial of the statements of all of them, after which he concludes with a prayer "that a better spirit may direct the trouble to a peaceful end."

He asserts that none of these gentlemen were at that prayer meeting when the firing is said to have occurred, and then, in apparent earnestness, asks the question: "How could they be so positive in their denunciation of the false hood?" I would say to Mr. Sloan, by way of reminder, that the denunciation is predicated upon the testimony of yourself, Mr. Cooledge, and five other leading members of the Baptist church, who swore before the mayor's court that, upon reflection, they did not believe there was any firing. Mayor Floyd is confident that in answer to a direct question all of you said there was no firing. May we not predicate our denunciation on this testimony? "Mayor Floyd admits from the evidence that there had been a disturbance. Then who was the perpetrator? I ask who made the threats." C. A. Foster, it is said, threatened to cane Fackler, and I think, perhaps, he did, and I am not sure but that the good men of this community, and every other community, who are acquainted with the facts, would say that he richly deserves to have the threat put into execution. But I cannot see how this could be evidence, that C. A. Foster or any one else, disturbed a congregation at religious worship. Foster threatened to cane Fackler and not the Baptist church and congregation, and if he threatened to shoot Fackler, it was not the Baptist church. The truth seems to be just this: Mr. Sloan and his indorsers would convict Foster of a felony (for a disturbance of religious worship) because he threatened to cane a man, a young man, who acknowledges to have lead a vagabond life for some years, and who, under the name of a Baptist preacher, assisted by men worthy of a better cause by trickery, low and contemptible plotting, succeeded in estranging his young sister from her home and friends, and getting her into the Baptist church, against the wish of her father and contrary to his positive injunction, and then taking advantage of his absence dipped her into the creek, and sent her home in her drenched clothes, near three-fourths of a mile. This seems to be the true statement. I use strong language because the case demands it. This is not a full statement of all the particulars in this case. It is enough to say that the particulars of this "Norcross baptism," in the question, would be a disgrace to heathenism in its worst form.

"The young lady presented herself for baptism after he had finished with all other applicants." Why not have put it in its true light? She was at the pool, and by the advice and through the persuasion of those around her at the time, she yielded to baptism. Those who influenced her in this matter felt no interest in her, or her welfare, farther than to do an act in defiance of the expressed wishes of her father, and that they might have something of which to boast. If you had put your question thus you would have been nearer right. I would not have noticed the card of Mr. Sloan, but for the reason that strangers will not know that a spirit of fanaticism has prevailed during a greater part of the "Norcross revival," and seems still to control their actions. This has been productive of strife and bitterness of feeling between those who were formerly on good terms. The effect of this card is to continue the troubles there instead of bringing peace and quiet. The friends of the Baptist church here are acting strangely in the matter, by joining in the strife, (stirred by a man of whom they have every reason to be suspicious) against their interest. They resort to every means to put the blame upon others, who are at peace and have been at peace. They are like the man setting the woods on fire to burn up his neighbor, who when his neighbor comes out with a torch to fire against him in self-defense, they begin to cry out stop! stop! you will burn everything up. They the first to begin the trouble here; they were the first to flourish it before the world through the public prints, and yet strange to say they cry "persecution" and close the thing out with the "prayer that a better spirit may direct the trouble to a peaceful end." But then, where shall this better spirit have its conception? with the guilty or the innocent?

Messrs editors: I hope I have troubled you for the last time. It appears to me, that this copy could not well be avoided. I have only endeavored to sustain the right, by a truthful presentation of the facts, and to condemn the wrong.

I hope you will publish this, justice demands it. Respectfully,

JOEL FOSTER.

The Sinking of the Vicksburg.

[By Telegraph to The Constitution.]

ST. JOHNS, June 14.—Parker Greenwood, a seaman, makes the following statement: On the night of May 31 we got in scattered ice. We were stearing slow and expecting to get through, when the sea ice struck the Vicksburg's quarter, knocking a hole and breaking the propeller. The ice afterwards knocked a hole near her bankers. At 6 P. M., June first, we found the vessel sinking fast. We got the boats out, and the first boat with four men was swamped a long side of our second boat with twelve men, got stave, but we stopped the leak.

The Octavia.

(By Telegraph to The Constitution.)

NEW YORK, June 14.—The counsel for Mr. Bainbridge, the owner of the English Octavia, which was seized by authorities on suspicion, as she was being fitted out for a Cuban expedition, called upon the collector to-day and demanded her release. The collector stated that he was awaiting instructions from Washington. Bainbridge then appealed to the British consul who promised to take some action in the matter if the authorities did not clear the yatch in a reasonable time. A dispatch was subsequently read stating that District Attorney Bliss has left Washington for this city and was empowered to act in the matter with the collector.

Summary of State News.

TALBOTTON.—Capt. Gamage's six-acre wheat patch yielded 78 bushels——There is an old lady, of eighty summers, in this county who has a gourd sixty years old that hold twenty-five gallons, all told. It was a bridal present to her from her lamented husband, who died many years ago. She has housed fifty crops of lard in this remarkable vessel and it is good to pass to the third and fourth generations——A rattlesnake, 25 feet 6 inches long with 31 rattles and a button, was killed between Talbotton and Redbone—From a most reliable source we learn that a stalwart negro woman, aged about 35, and living on the plantation of Mr. G. L Jordan, in this county, gave birth to four monstrosities one day last week. One of them had two perfectly formed human heads and a body like that of a dog. Another was more singularly formed; its body was shaped like that of a chicken and was covered with literal pin peathers, while its head was that of a perfect pig. The other two had no very remarkable features save that both of them had each four perfectly formed legs and arms—Standard.

THE THOMPSON HOUSE,

AT

45 WHITEHALL, AND 60 & 62 BROAD ST.

For the Summer Months.

On and after MONDAY, the 14th, and until further notice, in order to make my house pleasant to my friends and the public, I have resolved upon a reduction of rates, and have placed them at a schedule that will doubtless prove satisfactory. My house is arranged for families or single persons, and every arrangement has been perfected both in my dining room and private rooms, to warrant the comfort of all who may honor me with their pantranage.

Ice Cream Parlors.

In connection with the house, I have fitted up two parlors, fronting on Whitehall street, for the sale of Ice Cream during the coming season. The special attention of the ladies is called to these parlors. My reputation as proprietor of the Cafe, in the Capitol building, some six years ago, being a guarantee that they will be conducted in the best possible manner. Mrs. Thompson will pay special attention to the Ice Cream Parlors, and will see to it that the wants of ladies and children are promptly supplied. The Ice Cream Parlors will be kept open during the summer season from ten o'clock in the morning to midnight, and on Sundays from twelve o'clock noon to eleven o'clock p. m. R. G. THOMPSON.

WARM SPRINGS,
MADISON COUNTY,
WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA.
THESE SPRINGS are situated four miles from the Tennessee line, on the banks of the French Broad river, in the very midst of the highest ranges of mountains east of the Mississippi river, in a country generally known and truthfully called the Switzerland of America.
The Hotel accommodations are unsurpassed at any watering place or summer resort in the country.
The baths consist of large pools of a clear, powerful Mineral and Electric Water. Temperature 102 to 104 deg. Fahrenheit, which are wonderfully invigorating to all invalids, equalizing the circulation and stimulating the secretory organs; and will, in most cases of chronic and sub acute gout, rheumatism, dyspepsia, neuralgia, secondary syphilis, nephritic and calculous disorders, scrofula, cutaneous and many diseases peculiar to females, effect a radical cure. There is also a Cold Sulphur Spring near the Warm Springs, resembling very closely in temperature and color of deposit the Yellow Sulphur Spring of Virginia, with a sulphurous odor much stronger. These Springs are easy of access from all Southern cities, by all lines of railroads converging into East Tennessee, via Knoxville, Tennessee, to Morristown, East Tennessee.
Excursion or Round Trip Tickets are on sale to and from this place in all Southern cities at three cents per mile.

ATLANTA

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 15, 1875.

UNITED STATES soldiers desert at the rate of two regiment a year.

GRANT'S idea of the third term. It may be four years, and it may be forever.—[Cincinnati Commercial (Ind).

WHAT are there two men putting their heads together for? The Tribune reports that the Hon. William Walter Phelps is the guest of ex-Speaker Blaine, at Portland.

WHEN they build a railroad, the first thing they do is to break ground. This is often done with great ceremony. Then they break the stockholders. This is done without ceremony

BILL KING has temporarily suspended his search for Canada bulls, and appeared the other day at Washington, where he gave bail for his appearance to answer the peculiar charges against him.—

THE following cities are paying day laborers these prices: New Haven $1 75 per day; Norwich $1 50; Providence $1 33; Buffalo $1 50; Columbus $1 75; Springfield $1 50; Hartford $1 75.

A sufficient refutation of the story that grangerism is dying out is the fact that in the past three months one thousand new subordinate granges have been organized throughout the country.

PETER B. SWEENY is now in Paris, and his friends have telegraphed him to come home immediately and disprove Ingersoll's statements. Peter answers that America is a great and glorious country, but France is good enough for him.—[Brooklyn Argus.

DURING the recent interview between the Indian chiefs and the president, the latter got near enough to one of them to breathe in his face. The red man started back with a look of joyful surprise, exclaiming: "Ugh! big Injun and great father drink the same."

THE oldest ex-United States senator now living is said to be Peleg Sprague, formerly of Maine, who was senator from that state from 1829 to 1835. He also represented the Kennebec district in congress from 1825 to 1829, was subsequently for many years judge of the United States district court of Massachusetts, and is now living in Boston at a greatly advanced age.—[N. Y. Post.

AN entomological poet out in Coffeyville, Kansas, is inspired to the following which outside of its high poetic merit, possesses great statistical merit:

Should millions into millions multiplied be;
With ten million times ten million more,
'Twould scarcely represent a millionth of
The grasshoppers that pass our door.

MR. DISRAELI has been placing his nephew in the very snug position of second clerk in the house of lords, with the understanding that he is soon to succeed to the principal clerkship—an office of honor and emolument, and permanent. The young gentleman is the oldest son of Mr. Ralph Disraeli, the brother of the Prime Minister, and is named Coningsby after the hero of the cleverest of Mr. Disraeli's novels. Coningsby Disraeli will be the heir of his uncle's property, and is said to possess a good share of the intellectual gifts of the family.

THE administration has made a personal sacrifice. Usually its personal sacrifices have been on the A. Ward plan—sacrifices of somebody else—but this time it is a case of genuine self-abnegation, or something of that sort. The president acted "without delay" on the application of the Sioux chieftains, says the National Republican, and it continues piteously, "did so at great personal inconvenience, which prevented him from attending Gen. Sheridan's wedding and postponed his departure for Long Branch." There! And yet they say they won't give him a third term!

ACCORDING to G. W. P. Custis' recollections, the grooming of Washington's white horses was something surprising. The night before the horses were expected to be ridden they were covered entirely with paste, of which whiting was the principal component part; then the animals were swathed in body clothes, and left to sleep on clean straw. In the morning the composition had become hard, was well rubbed in, and curried and brushed, which process gave to the coats a beautiful and glossy and satin like appearance. The hoofs were then blackened and polished, the mouths washed, teeth picked and cleaned, and the leopard-skin housings being properly adjusted, the white chargers were led out for service.

THE new Atlantic cable, between the coast of Ireland and Rye Beach, whose successful working was announced yesterday, is the one laid from the steamer Faraday last year. It was found necessary to cut and buoy the cable when only about two hundred miles remained to be laid, and it has been lying idle at the bottom of the ocean ever since. Several efforts have been made to complete the work, but full success has only now been reached. This "Direct Atlantic Cable" is the fifth now in operation, and it derives especial importance from the fact that it connects on this side exclusively with the wires of the opposition telegraph companies, this securing a competition which, it is hoped, may effect a reduction of tolls. That is, if the opposition lines remain in opposition, but telegraph companies are "mighty onsartin"

GAG LAW.

The recent attempt of a United States district judge to hold the proprietors of a Texas newspaper responsible at the bar of his court for a criticism of his conduct which appeared in that journal, has attracted wide-spread attention. The liberty of the press is one of the guarantees of the constitution of our country which, in these days of radical mutations and centralisms, has been most jealously guarded. The efforts which have been made to muzzle the press have uniformly resulted in the propulsion of a boomerang which returned to wound its originator. The cases of Dana, of the New York Sun, in which Judge Blatchford delivered an opinion which must always be an authority, and of Storey, publisher of the Chicago Times, who was indicted, fined and imprisoned for telling the people the kind of men they were who sat upon the grand jury of the county, are notable examples And then there is the lamented Poland, of Vermont, who got up that little "gag-law" in congress, and died (politically) in the effort to swaddle it. This last tilt occurring in Texas finds as ludicrous and abortive a termination.

The case of the United States vs Henry Greenwall, charged with a violation of the civil rights bill in refusing admission into the parquette of his theater to two negro women who had succeeded in purchasing tickets, was upon trial in the United States district court, Amos Morrill, judge presiding. A demurrer to the action was entered by defendant's counsel, upon various grounds, which Judge Morrill overruled in a very unique and startling opinion. His utterances astounded the bar and drew from the Galveston News an article entitled "Law and Higher Law," of which the following is an extract:

"But the phenomenal tribunal just mentioned wraps itself in the awful sanctity of judicial ignorance, and, in the words of authority addressed yesterday to the counsel of defendant, 'leaves it to the jury to determine what the law of Texas is on the subject before the court,' as a federal judge for a Texas district 'is not presumed to know what the laws of Texas are' Nor does the judicial phenomenalism which so powerfully challenges the admiration of our local bar, stop with this startling declaration. Judge Morrill went on and said that, in consideration of the fact that the congress of the United States who passed the civil rights bill was composed in part of the ablest lawyers in the land, he would deem it the height of presumption in a district judge to set his opinion in opposition to that of the great law-makers who had passed the law."

The article gave great offense to Morrill, who pronounced it "as an attempt to throw the court into ridicule, and to inform the judge that his decisions were to be disregarded and declared that he could not suffer congress and the United States court to be thus contemptuously referred to, and directed the marshal to issue a rule against the proprietors and publishers of the newspaper to answer for a contempt."

The proprietors answered that their act was not "a contempt of court" and that the rule did not come in a shape to require further answer from them. And to show the peculiar construction which his learned judge put upon it we find him styling it "simply a request as polite as legal etiquette admitted, for the proprietor so state whether they intended the obstruction of justice or its equivalent a contempt of court." And the News very pertinently asks what the judge would have said if its proprietors had construed the summons as a "request" and paid it no attention? We very much fear there would have been an increase in the occupants of the county jail!

Upon rendering his decisions in this matter Judge Morrill steps from the sublime heights of tyranny to the ridiculous depths of quasi justification. He was particularly incensed that he should be called a "phenomenal tribunal, wrapping itself in the awful sanctity of judicial ignorance," and the effect of such language in "obstructing the administration of justice" he explained in this way:

"The Galveston News is the New York Herald of the state, read by most families and individuals in Galveston, and looked for every morning with as much anxiety as breakfast. It came into court in the hands and pockets of the jurors; it spoke to the minds of the jurors through their visual organs, and had the same effect in winning these minds as if the editor had publicly proclaimed it or personally whispered in their ears the contents of the article."

He said that publication was made in the very nick of time to have its legitimate effect, and that it was a fact that the jury during the first night of its deliberations sent a messenger to awake him in the middle of the night and ask his comments upon an article in the News, but which he refused to give. He agreed that, as the proprietors of the News disclaimed any intent to "obstruct the administration of justice," and he believed them, no offense had been committed, and they were discharged.

This case was a remarkable one in all its phases, and shows but still plainer the necessity for suppressing the radicalism which pervades all branches of the government at this time. The judge failed in this attempt, but he did not admit that he had no power to enforce any decree that he might have made. The possibility, therefore, of such outrages upon free speech and the liberties of the press, are what most need to be removed by a return to a strict construction of our constitution.

THE GREAT EARTHQUAKE.

Fuller particulars of the disaster in New Granada are needed to disclose the magnitude of what now appear to have been an almost unparalleled shaking and bursting of the earth's crust The loss of life, owing to the sparseness of the population, may not have been as great as in the Lisbon earthquake, when 60,000 perished, or in even that of Calabria, where 40,000 were destroyed; but in terror and volcanic phenomena it probably exceeded either. Any earthquake is sufficiently terrifying. The most we know about them is that they are due to some subterranean agency. This powerful underground movement is popularly connected with volcanic eruptions, and the two are attributed, in the popular mind at least, to an internal molten mass that constitutes the heart of the ball we live upon. Our brief dispatches from the New Granada disaster show that at least one volcano broke out simultaneously with the destructive agitation of the earth's surface.

The scene of this destruction of life is as near to us as it can well be, and be in South America. Leaving a gulf port, we cross the Gulf itself and the land-locked Carribean sea to reach the port of Barranquilla, at the mouth of the Magdalina river in New Granada. The population of the republic is about three million, divided among eight states. Col. Scruggs, of Atlanta, the representative of this country, resides B gota, which sharply felt the eartquake, although in a modified degree. His graphic pen may yet give us a vivid picture of the overwhelming disaster.

The Cordilera of the Andes spreads out, as it enters the country from the south, into three great ranges. The most easterly of these culminates in the rocky state of Santander, on the Venzuelian frontier, near the head waters of the Orinoco. This state is about two hundred miles from Barranquilla, about four hundred from Aspinwall, and about one hundred from Bogota. In 1850 it contained 378,876 people. It was the center of the earthquake's most destructive work. The capital of Santander, San Jose de Cucuta, was a commercial town of some 18,000 people. "Only a few families escaped," says the brief telegram from Panama. San Christobal, which contained 16,000 people, was "nearly destroyed," and many other towns in the prosperous and productive state, whose coffee is famous the world over, suffered severely.

The shock was as sudden as it was overwhelming. The movement hurled into eternity in less than a minute, not less than fifty thousand persons, in all probability. It destroyed vast amounts of property, and left the beautiful mountain state in gloom and ruin. All will await the fuller mail accounts with the deepest interest. They will soon be received at Aspinwall.

THE California republicans threw Gov. Pacheco overboard to nominate S. G. Phelps The bargain was made, it is rumored, by which Pacheco will be the republican nominee in the southern congressional district. The platform is full of senseless war gabble about the war record of the party, the constitutional amendments, and the people of the south. Several of the resolutions are ostensibly directed against the rings of the state, but as ringmaster Sargent presided over the convention and was its leading spirit, they mislead no one. The whole concern was engineered to send Gorham to the senate.

THE New Orleans Times commends at some length the action of Gov. Smith in refusing to commute the sentence of Yarbrough. It contrasts the firm and sensible action of Georgia's governor with the weak and hesitating course of the Massachusetts authorities in the case of the boy-fiend, Jesse Pomeroy. It is in error, however, when it says that Yarbrough was only fifteen years old, which is one year less than our proverbially inaccurate contemporary made of his age. In truth, he was eighteen years old.

SIX volumes of the war record, confederate and federal, will be ready for the printer when congress meets in December. These records are carefully put into type in the war department, and, after the proofs have been corrected, several slips of each letter or dispatch are printed. In this shape they are compiled or arranged for final publication with little risk for the safety of the originals.

And now the Sparta Times and Planter complains of the Daily Plagiarist. It charges that the D. P. copied an original letter from the Times and Planter, changed its heads, and published it as original matter without, of course, giving the Times and Planter any credit whatever.

The article is entitled "A woman and child buried Alive," and the best part of the joke consists, says the Times and Planter, in the fact that the letter was a hoax in the beginning, as the names contained in it plainly indicate. The Times concludes with a bit of advice to the Daily Plagiarist, as follows: "When you appropriate our sensational articles hereafter, don't impose a "hoax" on your readers. CHATTANOOGA.

Internal Workings—That Railroad—Its Wealth of Iron and Coal—Etc., Etc.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., June 15.

Editors Constitution:

As I was passing down Market street I heard a sweet voice exclaim: "I wonder who that fine, portly, handsome gentleman is!" Thinking that, of course, I was the object of the remark, I turned with grateful looks to the fair being occupied by the sweet voice, but, alas, that dimity-clad angel was not looking upon me; but her dove-like orbs were gazing across the street. Quickly following her look my eyes rested upon your indefatigable general agent, Col. Acton, who was lightly tripping along, with a pleasant smile upon his lips, and his gilt-edged order-book in his hand.

To meet a representative of one's own nationality in a foreign land, is said to be very pleasant, but for a native Georgian like myself to view so much of another native Georgian, as is Col. Acton, in the tangled jungles of Chattanooga, is a positive delight.

With a single bound, I cleared the gutter—some ten feet across—a few rapid, agile steps and I stood by his side. A dissipated looking youth, with a large Alaska solitaire gleaming in his shirt front, remarked: "What a pair to draw to!" I gave him a withering glance, and the next moment we stood within a palace of Gambrinus, and boldly charged upon two foaming mugs of ice-cold lager.

Well, perhaps seven hundred good, honest pounds avoirdupois didn't take solid comfort about then?

This all reminds me that the CONSTITUTION is very popular among the business men of Chattanooga, as its frequent appearance on their desks, and the formidable array it makes in the postoffice boxes as presented by an enfilading look through the general delivery window, after the arrival of the Atlanta mail clearly demonstrates. Away from Atlanta, a sight of THE CONSTITUTION always conjures up a shadowy form—a good, healthy, cheerful, strength-inspiring form—that of your immensely popular general traveling agent.

Like Atlanta, Chattanooga is a go-ahead city. Instead of howling about the hard times, and sitting on one-legged stools with sack-cloth and ashes, and wondering when the panic will be over, Chattanooga is up and doing. Her enterprising citizens take advantage of material and labor being cheap and are building fine commodious stores and elegant dwellings. Steamboats are building at her wharves, huge mills turn out iron, and timber, manufactories and cars, house building material, engines, carriages, wagons, and numerous other articles to the wealth of the country. The city already has most excellent water works, two gas companies in full blast, and a company is now building a system of short railways. The great Cincinnati Southern railroad comes on apace, and what is greater, better, and of more importance than all to this iron city, government engineers are at work on the "suck," the "shoals," and other obstructions in the Tennessee river below here, with half a million of dollars at their command. Once make navigation open, clear and easy up to Chattanooga and above, and no power on earth can prevent her being the leading iron city of the union. Furnaces and rolling mills, nail mills and foundries, will be built all about; for this region is blessed with untold masses of iron and coal, and the open Tennessee will afford transportation at rates so low that they cannot be reckoned on quantities less than a ton.

"Open the Tennessee river," should be the politics of Chattanooga and all East Tennessee. During the flood last winter, although there was more water in the river above than during the great flood in 1867, the water was not so high at Chattanooga as it was in 1867. This is accounted for by the fact that much work has been done removing the shoals below since 1867, and the water thus was was allowed to pass off more freely. It is thought that with complete work in opening the river, no floods can ever get into the streets of Chattanooga.

People are anxiously looking for the long difficulties of the Alabama and Chattanooga railroad, running from this city—three hundred miles—to Meridian, Miss., to be settled, and for J. C. Stanton to take hold of the road again, with a strong company to back him. Stanton did an amazing work for the advancement of Chattanooga, and it is to be hoped he will be enabled to carry out his plans, which were cut short in 1871. Affairs shape now as if he would soon gain full control of the road, with plenty of money to fix it up and operate it with.

The East Tennessee, Georgia and Virginia railroad, and the Memphis and Charleston railroad, have consolidated their offices in this city, under the management of Agent Ragsdale, a most competent and popular officer. It is reported that as soon as the fine new passenger depot of the Alabama and Chattanooga railroad is completed, the above roads will run their passenger trains into it, instead of the old Union depot on Ninth street.

A new hotel, the "Van Horn House," has been opened on Ninth street, near the passenger depot, in fine style. The table is unsurpassed by any hotel in the south, and the luxurious spring-beds are something for a tired man to enjoy. Colonel Acton is a judge of a good dinner, and he says the one he surrounded at the Van Horn house, was good enough for him.

Lookout Mountain is getting ready for summer. Its sides are covered with the greenest foliage; its waters and cascades sparkle and leap and tumble. Thousands will visit the historic old pile this summer, and view the grandest scenery on this continent.

Several Atlanta families have arranged to spend the hot months on Lookout, among them that of Col. W. C. Morrill, in one of Arnold's fine cottages.

Yes, like Atlanta, Chattanooga is a go-ahead, winning place; it don't wait for something to turn up, but just takes hold and turns it up.

THE POMEROY BOY.

A History of his Crime and a Sketch of his Life.

[Boston Globe.]

The report that the Governor and Council will in all probability vote to commute the sentence of Jesse Harding Pomeroy to imprisonment for life instead of ordering his execution, has been spread broadcast through the community, and it seems to be pretty well authenticated. This action will undoubtedly lead to a good deal of comment and discussion, as the community is divided in regard to the advisability and justice of hanging or commutation.

There is much argument on both sides in this case. While his atrocious crimes send a chill through the blood, and cause believers in capital punishment to earnestly demand that the majesty of the law be vindicated, and, moreover, that he be put out of the way of ever repeating his crimes, there are many other people who argue that it would be a blot on the good name and fair fame of the old Bay State to have recorded that her men, in high places, have hung a boy!

The story of the bloody deeds and inhuman butcheries of this boy, who has earned the title of "the boy fiend," will not soon be effaced from the minds of the people of this generation, at least, and his name will be used in the household, as it has been, as a terror to refractory children. Notwithstanding the fact that the story has been so often told, it is not inopportune at the present time, in view of the facts above stated, to briefly recount the terrible crimes that have rendered Pomeroy famous in criminal history.

If the thirst for human blood and delight in witnessing the sufferings of others were not born in this boy, it certainly was developed at a very early age, for he is found at the tender age of three years, a mere infant, cutting and stabbing a kitten, and taking infinite delight in its agony. Placed at school at an early age, the cruelty of his disposition was often shown in the pleasure he experienced in tormenting children younger than himself, by distorting his features. No marked case of extreme cruelty was, however, made known until a little son of Mr. Plane, of Chelsea, was enticed upon Powder Horn Hill by Pomeroy, tied to a post and most cruelly beaten with a rope and left helpless. This was about Christmas, 1871, and from that time the boy's appetite for blood seemed to grow, and during the next year deeds of a criminal kind were often repeated. When finally brought to justice and arraigned for the crimes committed, this year, 1872, he confessed to having committed the following brutal assaults:

"February 21, 1872, upon Tracy Hayden, whom he stripped naked, tied to a post and beat with boards and a rope, breaking the bridge of his nose, knocking out several of his teeth, and inflicting other terrible injuries.

July 4, 1872 upon Johnny Balch, who was enticed upon Powder Horn Hill, stripped, gagged, and terribly beaten, and then washed in salt water that his wounds might be fully felt.

September, 1872, Robert Gould was taken from South Boston to the vicinity of the Hartford and Erie Railroad, and there stripped and tied to a telegraph pole, and whipped and cut about the head with a pen knife.

In August of the same year Harry Austin was treated in the same barbarous manner, at South Boston; and a short time after, George Pratt was induced to go on board a yacht at South Boston, where he was stripped, according to this fiend's custom, and after having been punctured with pins and needles, was left insensible and bleeding.

About this time, also, Joseph Kennedy was maltreated upon the Old Colony Railroad, near South Boston, in the same manner as was Gould."

This career of blood was then checked for a time by the boy's incarceration in the Reform School. His release from the above occasioned but little comment, and he was but little thought of until the murdered body of the Millen boy was found, and he was arrested for the murder.

Following this came the discovery of the body of Katie Curron, and the fact that the boy was a double murderer. For the murder of the Millen boy he now stands convicted, and his career of crime, already too long, is cut short.

Pomeroy has changed but little during the past year, and his incarceration seems to have affected him but little physically, so that a description of him published in The Globe at the time of his arrest, still gives an accurate view of his personal appearance. He is about five feet in height, slim, straight, and when standing with averted face, presents a very good appearance. His gait is shuffling and slow, and there is nothing manly in his movements. His face is a study, and physiognomists and those who delight in the study of the human countenance, would do well to pay careful attention to our cut of the boy's face, and scrutinize it closely. The story of his life is written there. There all the frightful possibilities of his cruel nature are depicted, and it is easy to believe him capable of perpetrating the diabolical deeds of which he has been convicted. The cast in the right eye has very little to do with this impression, for it is the heavy under jaw, the firm set teeth, the lowering forehead, and sunken and lustreless eyes that picture forth but too plainly the merciless and unsympathetic soul beneath. It is the face of an animal, intelligent to a certain extent, but still stamped with brutality and sensuality. It is a face such as is seldom seen, and one that the people of this State may pray to never see again.

During his stay in jail, Pomeroy cannot be said to have wasted his time. While not engaged in conversation with the officers, his council, or those who have been admitted to see him, he has occupied his time in reading, and suitable literature has been furnished him. He sought eagerly for the newspapers, and exhibited a great desire to know how he was spoken of, and what the people thought of his case. He thoroughly understood the position in which he placed himself, and conversed intelligently with the officers concerning his case and the prospect before him, and seemed to appreciate and rather relish the legal technicalities of council. So thoroughly familiar did he appear with the weak and strong points of the argument in his favor and against him, and so keenly did he analyze the evidence of witnesses, that one of the officers of the jail said, with considerable facetiousness, "He would make an ornament to the Suffolk Bar." His conduct has been exemplary, and he has now the sympathy, if not the affection of more than one person that has seen him behind his iron bars. He is gentle in manner, and converses freely upon all subjects but his crimes. He is shrewdly suspicious, too, and cautious, and seems to weigh every question relative to himself or family carefully in his mind before answering. He sits quietly in his cell the greater part of his time, and rather seem to enjoy being alone. On the whole, he has acted very sensibly, very cooly and entirely different from what might naturally be expected from one in his position. During the whole of the great discussion concerning what action the Governor and Council should take, he remained perfectly calm as usual, though he watched the efforts that were being made in his behalf with considerable interest, and was profuse in his praise of those who spoke and wrote in his favor. His appetite is good, his health is unimpaired, he sleeps well, and altogether seems grateful that he is shut out from a world between which and himself there is little sympathy.

Regulating the Newspapers.

[By Telegraph to The Constitution.]

PARIS, June 13.—The bill for the regulation of the newspaper press, which will soon be submitted to the assembly by M. DuFaure, minister of justice, is published, and declares a state of siege raised, and makes attacks on the form of government and on the president of the republic punishable with imprisonment for not less than two months, or more than three years, and fines of from one hundred to one thousand dollars. Penalties are also attached to the publication of false news, and of petitions asking for the modifications of the constitution. An Athens special reports to the London journals that the abdication of the king is imminent and that several foreign men of war have arrived in Greek waters, are untrue. The country is perfectly tranquil.

RICHMOND, June 14.—The Richmond commandery No. 2 Knights Templar, left at 3 P. M., via York river and Baltimore, en route for Boston to participate in the Bunker Hill centennial celebration. The visiting knights numbered sixty, but will be joined by others on the route and expect to number seventy-five upon their arrival at Boston. The commandery is in charge of Lieutenant Commander Wm. E. Tanner and will be the guests of the Demolay commandery of Boston. They will be absent about ten days.

NORFOLK, June 14.—The Norfolk Light Artillery Blues left for Boston this afternoon on the steamer Wm. Lawrence. They were escorted to the steamer by the battalion of United States troops, headed by the naval band and by the city guard. The flags of the shipping in port were displayed and a number of steamers accompanied the Lawrence to Hampton Roads. As the Lawrence swung out from the wharf they were saluted by the United States receiving ship New Hampshire, which was returned by the Blues. Amidst the wildest enthusiasm salutes were exchanged with Gen. Barre at Fort Monroe. A number of distinguished gentlemen accompanied the Blues among whom are, Gen. Fitz Hugh Lee, Col. Walter Taylor, who was adjutant general on Gen. R. E. Lee's staff, M. Glenman, of the Virginian, and others.

Executive Department Notes.

The following order was issued at the department yesterday:

Whereas, at the sale of the Macon and Brunswick railroad, on the first Tuesday in June, instant, the same was purchased by the governor in the name of the state; and, whereas, by the second section of an act entitled an act for the protection of the state when its endorsement has been obtained upon railroad bonds, and enable the governor to appoint commissioners to manage or otherwise dispose of the same under his authority, approved March 5th, 1875, it is made the duty of the governor to appoint three discreet and responsible persons to take charge of said railroad, as a board of direcors. It is therefore Ordered, That Edward A. Flewellen, of the county of Upson, William A. Lofton and George S. Jones, of the county of Bibb, be and they are hereby appointed a board of directors, to charge of, and manage the said railroad, with all the powers conferred upon such board by law. It is further,

Ordered, That each of these said persons be furnished with a certified copy of this order of appointment.

[By Telegraph to the Constitution.]

WASHINGTON, June 14.—John S. Hayns, attorney general of Mississippi, is here.

The 8th regiment of cavalry, who have spent the past four years on duty in New Mexico, has been ordered to relieve the 9th regiment in Texas, the latter has been ordered to New Mexico.

Pierrepont has gone to New York to be absent a week.

It is expected that the London syndicate will early next month make another call on the treasury department for an additional number of the new U. S. bonds. The money market being favorable to such investments.

The treasury department is confident that the proofs already obtained are sufficient to convict all the crooked whisky distillers. The action of the government officers entrusted with the prosecution of the alleged offenders is entirely satisfactory to the department. Indictments have already been found against some of the distillers in the west. Trials will necessarily be delayed by the adjournment of court, but in the meantime the government will fully prepare itself to make the prosecutions effective.

A Notorious Desperado Assassinated.

[By telegraph to The Constitution.]

CINCINNATI, June 14.—Tom McGehan, a notorious deperado, made famous by the tragic end of his counsel, Hon. C. L. Vallandigham, who lost his life in explaining some points in the trial of McGehan for the murder of a man named Myers, was assasinated in his saloon at Hampton last night. From the appearance of the room and position of the body, the supposition is that some one entered the saloon and called for a drink, and while McGehan was serving the customer he was shot by some one through a window, as a pane of glass in the window was shattered into fragments. Although shot with several bullets in the right temple and side of the face, McGehan had strength enough to get his revolver to defend himself, but fell dead on reaching the end of the counter. No clue to the murderer.

In Search of the Missing Steamer.

(By Telegraph to The Constitution.)

ST. JOHNS, June 14.—The sealing steamer Commodore has also gone in search of the missing Vicksburg boats. The survivors of the Vicksburg disaster who reached here Saturday, were brought in by the American schooner Burnham. They report that six boats were lowered from the Vicksburg. Two of them capsized alongside, one capsized two hours after leaving the vessel, and one of their own was picked up. One of the two boats unaccounted for was, no doubt, that containing the men who arrived at New York. The captain and officers are said to have behaved well, but the seamen acted badly. The captain and the women went down with the vessel.

Another Negro Rape.

[By Telegraph to The Constitution.]

SYRACUSE, June 14.—On Saturday, at Lafayette, Onondega county, a negro, named Wm. Henry Mason, outraged a young married white woman, of the highest respectability, the wife of Newton A. Hoyt, of that place. He threatened her life if she revealed his act, but she made the fact known to her husband who caused Mason's arrest. Great popular excitement followed and the negro was near being lynched while being conveyed to the penitentiary, where he is now securely lodged.

The Mercantile Smugglers.

[By telegraph to the Constitution.]

NEW YORK, June 14.—In the United States circuit court, criminal branch, today, the members of the firm of Claflin & Co., and Field, Morris, Fenner & Co, together with Col. Robert DeSanges and Charles L. Lawrence were arraigned to plead to the indictments found against them by the grand jury for complicity in the silk smuggling frauds. All pleaded not guilty, with the exception of Lawrence, whose counsel asked for further time, which was granted.

Grasshoppers.

[By Telegraph to The Constitution.]

OMAHA, June 14.—Immense clouds of grasshoppers made their appearance flying northward over this place about 11 o'clock to-day, but none have alighted. They have appeared in immense swarms at Platt's Mouth, Nebraska and are destroying everything before them. They are moving northward.

The Weather.

[By Telegraph to the Constitution.]

WASHINGTON, June 14.—For Atlantic states stationary barometer, warmer, clear and partly cloudy weather, and southerly to easterly winds.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

TO THE CITY TAX PAYERS.

AT the last meeting of the Mayor and General Council they require of me, by ordinance, to open my books for the payment of taxes on the first day of June next, and to close them promptly on the twentieth day of August next. I am further ordered (in consideration of the fact that the Finance Committee will be compelled to pay about sixty thousand dollars interest on or about the first of July, and under the new city charter the committee can not borrow a dollar after that day, and as it is important, for the sake of the credit of the city, to raise the sixty thousand dollars on or before the first day of July), as a further inducement to tax payers to come up promptly, to allow 2¼ per cent. discount on all taxes paid between the first day of June and the fifth day of July. I hope that all those who intend to take advantage of the 2¼ per cent. will not wait until the last day, which will be the fourth of July, for it will be impossible for me to wait on them all, and yet I will have to close the books, and thus leave out many who might desire to pay. Respectfully, J. O. HARRIS, Tax Receiver and Collector.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

Christianity's Tidal-Wave.

Refreshings from the Presence of the Lord.

He Giveth Strength to His People and Salvation to Sinners.

In the annals of the church here perhaps there is no parallel to the present religious awakening pervading the entire community. It is not restricted to any particular class or sect. The tidal-wave has swept over the city and extended to the suburbs. It has assumed a shape that promises the most gratifying results to every Christian heart. The churches in Atlanta morning and night were attended by large congregations and in nearly all deep interest was manifested by sinners for the salvation of their souls.

FIRST BAPTIST.

Rev. E. W. Warren preached in the morning an interesting sermon to moralists and at night from 1 Peter, 4th chapter, 18th verse. "And if the righteous scarcely, be saved where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear."

The congregations were large and there were many enquirers. There were a number of candidates for baptism but baptism was postponed.

SECOND BAPTIST.

In the morning, Rev. Mr. Fack er preached from the text: "And they took knowledge that they had been with Jesus," Acts iv, 13 verse. At night he preached from Hebrews xi, 4, "For they that say such things declare plainly that they seek a country." The church was densely crowded at night, and many went away because they could not get in. At the conclusion of the sermon, Dr. Hickman in his eloquent style, addressed the young men of the city on the subject of intemperance.

Sixteen converts were baptised.

FOURTH BAPTIST.

The attendance was fine during the morning and evening services. In the morning, Rev. F. M Daniel, pastor, preached from Psalms 85, vi, 'wilt thou not revive us again' and at night chose for his theme, "Blind Bartimeus."

SIXTH BAPTIST.

Rev. Mr Jordan, the pastor, chose for his theme in the morning, "Christ once offered for all." At night Rev G R Moor preached. The attendance was full and a number asked to be prayed for.

TRINITY M E. CHURCH.

The Sunday school prayer meeting at 9 o'clock was an occasion of rare interest, and some one hundred and fifty desired the prayers of the church in their behalf. Several united with the church at the morning service and a number were baptised. The pastor, Rev. W. J. Scott, preached with unction and power in the morning, and at night his sermon "on the lost soul" was eloquent and impressive. The work of grace continues in the church.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

Rev J. E. Evans preached in the morning from Luke 16 chapter taking "the rich man his character and end" for his theme. It was a sermon of great power and deeply impressive. At night the bible meeting was held.

PAYNES CHAPEL.

Rev. O L. Smith, D. D., preached in the morning to a full congregation. Rev. J. E. Evans preached at night from Hosea 6 chapter 3d verse, "Then shall we know if we follow on to know the Lord." The interest was marked.

EDGEWOOD.

The meeting at night was well attended, and much interest was manifested.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

The congregation was a large one in the morning. Rev. J. H. Martin preached from Psalm 42, vii. "Deep calleth unto deep."

CENTRAL PRESBYTERIAN

The usual large congregation assembled, and listened with profound attention to the able discourse of its pastor.

ST PHILLIPS EPISCOPAL.

The spacious church was filled in the morning. Rev. R. T. Foute preached a fine discourse from Ezekiel 18, xxvii: "Again when the wicked man turneth away from his wickedness that he hath committed, and doth that which is lawful and right, he shall save his soul alive."

CHRISSIAN CHURCH.

Sunday morning, Rev F P Perdue, pastor of the Hunter street Christian church delivered a very interesting sermon from the words of the Savior as recorded in the 14th verse 15th chapter of John, a brief synopsis of which is given below:

"Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you." John 15:14

In repeating the ancient declaration, "If the Lord be God, serve him; if Baal, serve him," we indicate a purpose to-day to ascertain who here is on the Lord's side. God requ red his people anciently to define their position, and the Christian must ally himself with the world or with the God who made him neutrality here is impossible.

In civil governments it is not enough that men are not in armed rebellion against the power that guarantees to them liberty and the protection of life, but their allegiance must be manifest by deeds of loyalty. So it has always been in God's moral government, and so it is to-day in the kingdom of Jesus Christ. "Abraham was justified by works when he had offered Isaac, his son, upon the altar. Seest thou how faith wrought with his works, and by works was faith made perfect. And the scripture was fulfilled which saith, Abraham believed God and it was imputed to him for righteousness. Abraham, not by simply believing there was a God, and that he rewarded the diligent seeker, but by obedience to his positive law, became invested with two titles worn by no one before or since. He is called the father of the faithful and the friend of God. Jesus demands a similar manifestation of allegiance. And here the question arises, who is Christ and is he worthy of the homage of sensible, rational men? In answer to this enquiry the speaker drew a lengthy, eloquent and thrilling portraiture of the Son of God, showing Him worthy of the homage, not only of fallen men, but of the pure and spotless angels who surround the throne; and then coming back to the text he showed by argument and illustration that we proved ourselves to be the subjects of Jesus Christ by implicit obedience to his commands. "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you."

Cumberland Presbyterian.

Synopsis of a sermon by Rev. W. H. Crawford, pastor of Cumberland Presbyterian church.

Text: "Christ is all," Col. 3, ii.

Man is a creature of worship. The necessity of some kind of religion is generally admitted. But what true religion is, is very much disputed. There are many systems of religion, which often contradict each other, and yet every man flatters himself that his is the true one. How are we to determine whether they are right or wrong? The only way to determine this question is this: Bring everything in religion to this text: "Christ is all." He is the sum and substance, the Alpha and Omega, of all true religion, and every system of religion is defective wherein Christ is not all. We have in Christ all that we need in true religion. None but Christ can meet the religious wants in our nature.

Christ is all, in the worship of God, our devotions must be spiritual for "God is a spirit and seeketh such to worship him." Singing is an important part of divine service. "It is good to sing praises unto our God." Singing should be "in the spirit" and "with the understanding also." It is to be feared that singing in our churches has lost much of its moral effect, and is sadly wanting—Christ is not all in our church music—everything must be sacrificed to mere musical taste. Choirs are employed and they become mere performers, and the people mere listeners. The singers sing to the congregation, not to God—and the congregation praise the singers, not God. Such musical entertainments are but a commotion in the sight of God. In singing Christ must be all. He lays his hand on the main spring of the heart and touches the musical chords in the soul and causes them to vibrate in harmony with His divine perfections, and as the sweet notes come welling up from the heart touch the tongue and tune it for His praise. If, then, the music of instruments can be made to chime in and swell the anthem as they roll, and fill the house and temple of God with sounding praise, it is well. Choir or no choir, organ or no organ, Christ must be all in this indispensible branch of worship, and we can no more worship God by proxy in this than in other parts of worship. Prayer is also an important part of worship, and to be acceptable must be offered in the name of Christ. Prayer is a sense of want seeking relief from God. The publican prayed, but the Pharisee said prayers, and all prayers must be perfumed with the merits of Jesus. Preaching belongs to God's worship. The minister must not only preach, but he must preach Christ and Him crucified. This theme must possess and fill his soul. Christ must be all in his sermons. Preaching like singing has become too much of an entertainment designed rather to create in man a respect for religion, instead of striving to make them new creatures in Christ Jesus; designed rather to catch and collect the rich and well to do in life, and build up a society or church instead of laboring to save their souls from hell. Preaching aimed at the heart and that would arouse the souls of men and awaken their guilty consciences is not in keeping with the taste of the present times. Men want smooth things addressed to the intellect, to the head and not to the heart. Sermons are not wanting in learning, elegance of taste, oratory, poetry, criticism, etc., but alas! in too many cases Christ is not all, ... is nothing in them. The sermon ing, or one in which to display the excellencies and beauties of religion, he need not go to Greece or Rome or traverse oceans or scale mountains, or scrape the heavens to find such a theme; he need but go to the cross of Christ and there he will find wisdom too deep for the intellect of an angel, a theme heavenly and sublime, far beyond the power of the distinguished, of the most learned and accomplished orator. Christ must be all in our sermons, not ourselves, not the opinions of others, not the well rounded periods or rhetorical flourishes, but the simple presentation of truth in words, tone and delivery, with an earnestness characteristic of one burdened with the worth of souls.

The preacher should enter the pulpit with his soul full of the presence of Christ that he may be enabled to bring forth from "his treasury things both new and old," not bring forth from his pocket a manuscript, and bore his audience with an hours reading on some moral or religious subject and leave them no better but in many cases worse than he found them. The world will never be converted by reading sermons—but by men sent of God who will cry aloud (not read aloud) and spare not and show men their sins and transgressors their doom. Christ is all in the matter of the sinners acceptance with God. Not his own words or the deeds of the law, but the righteousness of God. Being clothed with that he needs nothing else; though guilty helpless sinners if we come to Christ and believe in Him we are accepted in the beloved who is all and in all. In the matter of personal experience Christ is all, there is a felt sense of his holy presence, the joy of pardoned sin, peace with God "shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost," he knows for himself and not another that "Christ the hope of glory, is formed in him." His hope is not predicated on mere desire or something good in his training or character, but on a felt sense of Christ's love in the heart and the abiding testimony of "God's spirit that beareth witness with his spirit that he is a child of God." This experience is sweet and most delightful because Christ is all in it.

In the christian's trials, troubles and persecutions, Christ is all to him; he gives him grace to conquer and will carry him through. Sin is the cause of all the misery in this world, if we would be happy the cause must be removed. None can do this but Christ. When he removes sin from our hearts, then we are happy. He sits up his kingdom in us. That kingdom "is righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Ghost." The christian draws all his happiness and safety from Christ. His promises are all "yea and amen." He is all to the Christian in a dying hour when all human aid fails "Jesus can make a dying bed feel soft as downy pillows are." The precious Savior enables him to triumphantly shout, "Oh! death where is thy sting?" In heaven, Christ is all and in all. All the angels adore him. His presence brightens and cheers the heavenly world.

"All hail, the power of Jesus' name,
Let angels prostrate fall,
Bring forth the royal diadem,
And crown Him Lord of all."

THE BIBLE SOCIETY.

The anniversary of the Bible society was held at two churches at night.

THE CENTRAL PRESBYTERIAN.

The house was well filled. Rev. J. H. Martin conducted the introductory exercises. The report was read by S. D. McConnell, secretary.

Rev. W. P. Harrison, D. D., delivered a strong and fervid address on the Bible.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH.

At this church Hon. John H. James, president, presided, Rev. W. A. Parks conducted the introductory exercises and read the report. Rev. O. L. Smith, D. D., delivered a strong and beautiful address on the Bible.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

At 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon a good audience assembled at Loyd street church to join the celebration of "children's day," by the Sunday school connected with that church. Mr. A. B. Jones, superintendent of the school, conducted the opening exercises, consisting of singing by the school the song entitled "Peace upon Earth." This was followed by prayer by the pastor, Rev. W. B. Osborn. After another song by the school the superintendent called upon Mr J. C. Kimball to make a statement of the origin and objects of the observance of "children's day."

Mr. K. stated that the last general conference of the church, held in 1872, wishing to show its deep and abiding love for, and interest in the Sunday school cause, and to impress the children with the fact that they are an important and fully recognized element in the great work of the church, set apart the second Sunday in June, to be observed each year by all the churches in the conference, as a day especially devoted to the interests of the children of the Sunday schools. Its observance is not confined to a single school, or conference, or to a single state, or county but all over the world "children's day" is recognized as one of the great days of the year. That the little school present formed a part of the great Sunday school army, embracing in its ranks not less than two millions of children, who perhaps at that very hour were celebrating this anniversary.

It was the purpose of its founders, that the day should be the time when the children of the Sunday schools should be gathered into the folds of the church, and also the day when infant children belonging to families of the church should be baptized.

Among other objects, it was resolved to take a collection on this day in all the schools to raise a "children's fund," the interest of which is to be devoted to the works of educating Sunday school children. This fund now aggregates over one hundred thousand dollars.

After his remarks another song. Then a recitation of Bible verses. Then there was a baptism of two little infants. At the close of these services, another song was sung, followed by exceedingly interesting and entertaining speeches by Major Campbell Wallace, F M. Richardson, C. E. Boynton, J C. Hendrix, H. I. Kimball, and Rev. Mr. Osborn.

Mr. D. A Beattie, superintendent of the Central Presbyterian school, and Mr. W. A. Rawson, were called upon, but excused themselves in a few words expressive of their interest and sympathy.

A collection was then taken for the "children's fund," which seemed satisfactory, and then the congregation was dismissed with a benediction.

POMOLOGICAL.

Meeting of the Fulton County Society.

The pomological society met in the rooms of the direct trade association, Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock—vice president, Col. Robert Baugh in the chair.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The election of officers was postponed until the next meeting.

The following fruits were exhibited Mr. W. C Robinson exhibited his white nutmeg peach, new English Beatrice peach, Herstine raspberry, May Duke cherries, red Astracan apples, Houghton's seedling gooseberry, yellow May apples.

Mr. D. R. Ladd exhibited, Astracan, Early harvest, red June, sweet, and Baugh varieties of apples; and Doyenne d'Ete, and Madaline pears.

Mr. J. Norcross exhibited Concord grapes, not ripe, but bearing evidence of rot.

The report of the fruit committee was read and approved.

After a further discussion of pear blight, the meeting adjourned.

Meeting of the Board of Trade.

On yesterday at 11 o'clock, the board met in their chamber, Mr. W. J. Garrett presiding. Mr. John Stephens called the board. A few changes were made as will be seen in our market report.

Captain Langston stated to the board that he had a communication from J. H. Edmonds, of the Republic Publishing company, of Washington city, asking for a copy of the latest annual report or other documents of the board, which would show the course of trade during any given recent period for the city and the section of which it is the natural center.

He regretted that the board had no report or document that would give the above desired information, and was often solicitous that the board would take some steps to procure statistics, preserve the same, &c. He moved that the chair appoint a committee to report some plan by which statistics and other valuable information could be gathered, and to submit the same at the next meeting of the board.

The motion prevailed, and a committee consisting of T. L. Langston, John Stephens, and L. Gholstin, were appointed.

After the transaction of some further business, the meeting adjourned.

ATLANTA A MANUFACTURING PLACE.—No city in the south, so well located, for manufacturing all styles of goods and wares as Atlanta. From this city we have competing roads running to most of our cities in Alabama, Georgia, South and North Carolina and Florida. Freights are secured at low rates to Meridian, Mississippi, Selma, Birmingham, Eufaula, Montgomery and Mobile, Alabama, Columbia and Charleston, South Carolina, Charlotte and Raleigh, North Carolina. Goods made here can be delivered at said and intermediate places at extremely low rates. In proof of this the success of the "Excelsior Steam Soap Works" of our city, under the management of Mr. J W. Fears, bears testimony. The well known brands of soap of this establishment we see going throughout the country. Let our cotton factory be put to working, turning out goods as soon as possible.

A SENSATION ON MARIETTA STREET. Yesterday evening a gentleman passing down Marietta street, seemed very much perturbed. Some thought it was a case of "jim-jams." The agitated gentleman thought that his trouble was caused by spirits from another sphere. He shrugged his shoulders and slapped his sides, exclaiming "I feel it touch." He fervently prayed that if it was a spirit that it might be materialized. Lo and behold, the prayer seemed to be granted, for down his sleeve ran a——mouse. He will carry goobers in his pockets no more.

HOW CRUEL.—"Ye local" mourneth for his pet gopher. Some inconsiderate and illiterate African caught the aforesaid pet in the woods and slew her. The children buried her, marking the spot, "Miss Sallie G Opher, slain by a ruthless assassin, in the 2nd year of her age."

TOWN TOPICS.

—A monotonous tranquility hovered over the city yesterday.

—Purifoy, one of the condemned murderers now in jail, is still wrestling in spirit and seeking the knowledge of Divine pardon.

—Yesterday the mouth of the sewer above the passenger depot did not have the odor of spring lilacs and summer roses.

—The inflated individual who swallowed John Barleycorn sneezed perspiringly near the car shed yesterday.

—A lady, a little behind hand, as usual, jumped over the cross-ties in a lively way, yesterday, and finally caught the train.

—The ambulance of the gay fisherman goeth out in the early morning nowadays.

—A colored vendor of so called ice cream in this city has already realized about a quart of pewter nickles, and the season has just begun.

—There was music in the air out on Hunter street Sunday night, and a subscription is being taken up by the neighbors to buy that young man's fiddle for fire-wood.

—Two men met in a Decatur street car yesterday who hadn't seen each other for nine years. One of them owed the other $10 all that time, and does yet.

—There are two juvenile alligators of frisky natures and two recently sprouted turtles in the basin of the Alhambra fountain.

—The market is pretty well supplied with spring chickens now, though some that are exposed for sale have about as many feathers as a grasshopper.

—Fresh peaches sell in this market at the rate of about $8 00 per bushel. It is a fruit that we are not fond of eating much of early in the season.

—Plums, green apples, and in some instances stale vegetables, were offered for sale yesterday at some places. What is to prevent the giving a series of receptions to our physicians?

—Saturday night, at about eleven o'clock the vicinity of Bell street bridge was enlivened by the stentorious voice of a negro, but whether he was preaching, making a political speech, or cussing, we don't know.

—The cotton factory is no longer within the scope of prophecy, but is a matter of fact and sober calculation. The amount made up, the lot purchased, and the president receiving bids for lumber.

—The barber-war grows hair rowing, and from the keenness with which the knights of the strap are leathering away at each other, they are in a fair way to razor row, when some of them will get scissors.

—The question agitating the colored people's debating club in this city is whether a negro born since the emancipation can claim the protection of the civil rights bill, since he never had any "previous condition."

—A young friend of ours played "hookey" from church on Sunday, but from the shouting he did in the wood-shed yesterday morning we think his father must have been holding revival services for Joseph's special benefit.

—A friend of ours who was summoned on the jury yesterday offered a reward of five dollars to the man who would come in just as court opened and tell him his mother-in-law was dangerously ill. As he has no mother in law his scheme failed.

—She lives on a fashionable street and "she never told her love," but the old gentleman found it out, and he told her that the next time that fellow came around he'd show her how his No 8 used to fly about when he went to corn shuckings.

—It may be true that nature will not suffer her distinguishing lines to be forgotten by carelessness or effaced by want of talent. Yet we defy any one to recognize the pencil of a Reynolds or a likeness of General Lee in a chalk cut on a fence on Collins street and having Robert Lee's name under it.

—We examined on yesterday a plan of the building for the cotton factory, which will doubtless be adopted. The length of the building is 236 feet, width 72 feet, five stories high with a tower at one end. There is no effort at display or anything of the kind about the building, but it is plain, substantial, possessing the modern improvements, and is well arranged for the purposes for which it is to be built.

—A negro drayman tried to back his mule and dray through a freight train at the Forsyth street crossing yesterday afternoon. Dray, mule, driver and load of flour were all piled up promiscuously, and it took two of that darkies particular friends to straighten him and the mule out again. However, no limbs were broken, and the train wasn't hurt, but the activity developed by that mule in getting away from the road was astonishing.

—A solemn-looking six foot stranger was passing along Peachtree street yesterday morning, when he suddenly spied a nickel lying on the sidewalk. The stranger stopped, adjusted his eye glasses, then bent over and reached for that nickel. But the more the stranger reached the farther away that nickel seemed to get, until at last his eyes fell upon a string, and at the other end of the string upon a small boy who was gently pulling the nickel towards him with all the symptoms of an unspeakable delight. The countenance of the stranger as he rose up was exceedingly sorrowful, and he made a dart at that small boy as if he yearned to embrace him. But the small boy evidently smelled a rat and disappeared in the adjacent store with commendable rapidity. The stranger paused, as if about to follow him, then smiled the very feeblest sort of a smile and went his way up the street with lengthy strides.

—The fire in Beau Berry's drug store yesterday morning, created fully as much of a panic overhead, as it did down stairs. There was much rejoicing about, exclamations and some tears from the ladies, and considerable cursing from some of the gentlemen. A young grocery merchant tossed his trunk out of the second story window and was about to follow it himself when a second thought induced him to change his mind, dart through the crowd and rush down the steps with a boot under one arm and a clothes brush under the other. Dropping the trunk out of the window didn't prove a success at all. Up to yesterday afternoon, he had secured a piece of the top, one box of collars, and his sweetheart's last letter. A modest young physician, while rushing out in frantic haste, gathered up something white from the top of the steps, which he thought was a part of his wearing apparel, and when he got across the street, stopped to put it on. The unhappy young man's horror can be imagined when he discovered that the article not only didn't fit, but that it didn't belong to a gentleman at all. He was so overcome that he had subsequently to be blindfolded and backed up to a pair of his own pants.

Personal Paragraphs.

—Captain John Milledge returned to the city yesterday from a visit to Virginia.

—Judge John W. O'Neal, of Gainesville, died at nine A. M. Sunday morning.

—Pulliam street continues happy in consequence of the presence of one of Cartersville's fairest daughters.

—Reese Crawford Esq., of Columbus, and Mr. S. H. Hughes, of New York, and W. S. Cowardin, of Virginia, are in the city.

—Can any one tell Mr. J. J. Trow, "where Nancy's gone?" His fine cow, the one that gave five gallons of milk per day, has disappeared.

—The types would make it Miss Fanny Taylor, whereas we wrote plainly Finny Taylor in our notice of the college girls returning from Virginia.

—Col. W. M. Nichols left the city yesterday morning for New Holland. He has perfected every arrangement to make it a pleasant and attractive summer resort. The opening hop comes off on the 25th inst. Ladies are all invited. Tickets for the round trip $2 25, and good until Monday.

Col. R. R. Bren, of Savannah, will be in the city to-day at the Kimball House. Col. Bren represents, with Col. Avery, that powerful life insurance company, the Connecticut Mutual, so deservedly popular among our people.

MAKING A GOOD RUN.—A director of the Georgia railroad, residing some forty miles from Atlanta, was left yesterday evening by the accommodation train. He made splendid time, and overtook the train before it reached the cemetery. It was hard to tell which blowed the most, the engine or the director.

THE movement made by the Board of Trade yesterday relative to Statistics of the Trade of the city, show that that body is waking up. A former secretary of that body proposed if the Board would furnish him with the blanks he would get them up. And now they begin to see the importance of what he then suggested.

COMING INTO TOWN.—The Central (Fourth) Baptist church has purchased a lot on the corners of Peters and Fair streets, and will soon begin the erection of a new edifice. The lot is 58¼x150 feet. We congratulate them on getting a more central location.

THE OXFORD LECTURES.—The Oxford lectures will be resumed next Friday evening. Rev. A. Means, D. D., will deliver the opening lecture at Oxford, followed by other interesting exercises.

EXPERIMENTAL TRIP.—Col. E. P. Howell left for Duluth yesterday, as an experimental trip before leaving for California. We pity the poor cattle he mistakes for buffaloes.

COMPREHENSIVE.—Debry's history of the United States is one of the most compact, comprehensive and complete works of the day, well adapted to the want it is intended to supply.

J. F. MORRIS.—Mr. J. F. Morris lost above insurance some $3,000. The young man who was sleeping in the store escaped, leaving all his clothing inside.

READY MADE CLOTHING.—Mayson & Norman will commence to-day the sale of ready-made clothing at 9 A. M. Go and get into a good habit.

EMERY is now monarch of the retail ice trade. He will now furnish lake or manufactured ice for the same price. Keep kool.

THE BRUNSWICK & ALBANY R. R.

Judge O. A. Lochrane's Version of the Lockett Case.

The Suit for Three Quarters of a Million not Ended.

The Brunswick Appeal, in its last issue, publishes an article under the heading "A Big Scheme Spoiled," in which it indulges in some congratulations over the defeat of Col B. G. Lockett's suit for $750,000 damages, against the Brunswick & Albany railroad company. The Appeal presents some facts concerning the litigation over the bond required from Col. Lockett, being for $1,50,000, among the sureties on which were our citizens Hons. Joseph E. Brown and O. A. Lochrane, and the result, which was the dismissal of the suit on account of the insufficiency of the bond.

Desiring to present the status of the case as nearly as possible, a CONSTITUTION reporter yesterday called upon Judge Lochrane, who m he found in his happiest mood and from whom he gleaned the following particulars:

EARLY HISTORY OF THE AFFAIR.

Reporter.—Judge, will you be kind enough to give THE CONSTITUTION a statement of this matter?

Judge L.—(After reading the Appeal article) Oh yes; I shall be happy to do so, and can in a very few moments. The circumstances out of which the trouble and suit arose were about as follows:

The German bondholders who bought the road, as their agent, Mr. De Neufville, of New York, who appeared himself as a prominent creditor, holding bonds to the amount of some $484,000, and who also purchased the road, taking titles to himself, as agent for the purchasers, some time in the summer of 1874. Mr. De Neufville desired to have an arrangement with Col. Lockett to get him to control the road, and after several interviews and attempts to lease the road, finally, in November De Neufville entered into a contract with Lockett agreeing to give him 50 per cent of all he could obtain in settlement of the claim he held against the state on account of its endorsement of the first montgage bonds of the road.

THE CONTRACT UNCONDITIONED.

This agreement was unconditional, and so telegraphed the same day it was executed to the Frankfort committee by Mr De Neufville. The agreement contained two clauses submitted for ratification, to wit: "taking up the iron" and "leasing" but the contract to give 50 per cent. was absolute. Mr. De Neufville desired Lockett to come to Georgia organize measures and secure the aid of men essential to carry out the claim upon the state. This Lockett did at once, entering into written contracts, binding himself for large sums of money, and paying out money to accomplish the purpose. When Lockett in advance of his friends, he found a dispatch from M. de Neufville, telling him to consider the preliminary arrangements cancelled. To this Lockett replied that he had a solemn contract, spent money and incurred obligations to carry it out, and if prevented, he wanted it done by de Neufville as the agent of the parties making it, etc. After some three days telegraphing, de Neufville finally telegraphed that he had just heard from Frankfort all right. When Lockett, supposing all was right, went ahead, spent more money, and incurred more obligations, and returned instantly to southwestern Georgia.

CAME TO ATLANTA

ANOTHER SURPRISE.

On his next return to Atlanta, to his surprise, he found a letter from M. de Neufville, absolutely cancelling the contract. Upon which Lockett notified him that he would hold the property liable for his actual outlay, obligations and expenses incurred under their contract.

This ended the controversy by telegraph, when Mr. Lockett applied to Judge Lochrane to employ him as counsel to bring suit. The judge declined, on the ground that he had been the counsel of the bondholders. Then Lockett employed Mr. B. H. Hill, paying him a large cash fee, and also employed Col. Smith, of Albany. An attachment was issued in which the bond for security covered a very large amount. The judge of the court then presiding approved the bond, but subsequently before his successor a motion was made to dismiss the attachments.

THE PRESENT STATUS.

Mr. Lockett, unwilling to put all his friends on the bond, offered to write off the damages claimed down to $100,000. This the judge held he could not do, as a matter of amendment, and this decision has been carried to the supreme court. In the meantime Mr. Lockett has his papers prepared to attach for that amount in case the supreme court should decide this technical question against him. Of one thing we are assured, that the litigation has only commenced

THE CITY COURT.

Lively Criminal Session.

Judge Cowart after Vagrants, Thieves, Etc

The city court met yesterday at 8 o'clock, his honor Judge R. J. Cowart filling the chair with his usual dignity.

The call of cases on the criminal docket was taken up, and before court adjourned, the learned judge had made the fur fly from more than one unfortunate darkey.

The first case was against one Mr. Moore, who is charged with the heinous crime of adultery. The prisoner went to trial with Hon. M. A. Candler for the defence. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty. The defendant was sentenced to pay a fine of 20 and costs, or go to the chain gang for eight months.

State vs Robert Thomas. Larceny from the house. The defendant was tried by the court, and found not guilty. Finley for defence.

State vs Jennie Smith. Vagrancy. This defendant was tried by the court, and found not guilty. Finley for defence.

State vs. Lizzie Pearson. Vagrancy. This defendant allowed to take a verdict of not guilty. J. C. Jones for defence.

State vs. Coley Beavers. Keeping a gambling table. Sentenced $50 and costs, or chain-gang for six months.

State vs Dan Key and Chance Wood Simple larceny. Charge of stealing a lot of corn and oats from the stable of L. P. Baker & Co. Verdict guilty. Sentence suspended.

Court then adjourned until eight o'clock this morning when the bond cases will be called up.

The Magistrates.

Mr. George Anderson, whose arrest by the police for shooting at a negro named Brown Bird Saturday night, we have already noticed, was tried yesterday morning before Justice Butt. As the provocation had been considerable, the magistrate thought that the ends of justice would be satisfied by holding the prisoner to answer the offense of assault and battery. He was accordingly required to give a bond of $200. Mr. Hoke Smith appeared for the prosecution, and Judge Daniel Pittman for defendant.

Another Fire.

This morning shortly after the hour of one, one of the compositors of THE CONSTITUTION office saw a gleam of light shoot up near by, and with stentorian voice cried out, "Fire." With lightning-like rapidity the flame increased in volume until the town was luminous with its light, and spires and vanes glistened like molten gold in its beams.

The fire was first seen in the roof of a wooden building on Whitehall street, wedged in between James bank and James bank block. It was an old building, and being dry, caught like tinder. The flames shot up in mid air, and the heat grew intense. Nothing but the heavy brick walls on either side saved the adjoining buildings. A window in James' bank block was left open, and the heat broke out the glass, but no further damage was done to the building.

The upstairs was occupied by Mr. Kuhn, daguerrian artist. One part of down stairs was occupied by Mr. Speigle, Jr., music &c., and the other by Mr. Speigle, Sr., as dry goods store. A portion of the goods were removed, but were in a damaged condition. The building was owned, we believe, by Dr. N. L. Angier and V. A. Gaskill.

Mr. P. A. Farrington, engraver, occupied a room over the novelty store. The fire was first discovered in Farrington's room.

Mr. Speigle and his family sleep in rear of his store.

Mr. Speigle, Sr., was insured for $6,000. His stock was valued at $9,000. He was insured with Messrs. Putnam & Haskill. Mr. Speigle, Jr, was not insured.

The building is reported to be insured for $2,000.

The fire companies were all out and did splendid service.

Revival Notes.

The meeting at James' Hall, yesterday evening, was deeply interesting. There was a full attendance.

Prayers were offered by Revs. Jordan and Daniel and John H James. J. T. Mcguire read the scriptures and delivered a fervent exhortation. Brief and touching remarks were made by ten or twelve, several being young converts and several having served the Lord from 18 to 30 years. "All stood up for Jesus." Among them was a widow 80 years who talked sweetly of her trust in Jesus. Sixty rose up in the audience and indicated their desire to be saved.

The meeting will continue there during the week.

THE next issue of the Sunny South will contain an engraving of Hon. H. V. Johnson with a sketch of his life written by Judge R. H. Clarke.

THE Annual Meeting of the Atlanta Benevolent Association takes place this after-

FIFTH BAPTIST FESTIVAL.

A Splended Hall and Fine Attractions.

Let all Attend To-Night.

The Benevolent society of the Fifth Baptist church have a festival in the store on the corner of Forsyth and Alabama streets, formerly occupied by Messrs. Abbott and Bro.

The store is finely adapted for PROMENADING while the tables in the center are filled with all that can satisfy the palate.

Miss Emma Paris and Miss Lula Edwards are the contestants for the crown of Love and Beauty. Both are worthy of it and the voting will be spirited. The house will be crowded to-night. Remember it is at the corner of Alabama and Forsyth streets.

Ho! For Toccoa.

Evans chapel parsonage picnics to Toccoa on Thursday. Fare for the round trip $1 50. Let all go and enjoy a splendid trip.

A BOOK FOR THE MILLION.

Marriage Guide. A Private Counselor to the Married, or those about to marry, on the physiological mysteries and revelations of the sexual system, with the latest discoveries in the science of reproduction, preserving the complexion, &c.

This is an interesting work of two hundred and sixty pages, with numerous engravings, and contains valuable information for those who are married or contemplate marriage; still it is a book that ought to be kept under lock and key, and not left carelessly about the house.

It contains the experience and advice of a physician whose reputation is world-wide, and should be in the private drawer of every male and female throughout the entire globe. It embraces everything on the subject of the generative system that is worth knowing, and much that is not published in any other work.

Sent to any one (free of postage) for Fifty Cents. Address Dr. Butts' Dispensary, No. 12 N. Eighth street, St. Louis, Mo.

Notice to the Afflicted and Unfortunate.

Before applying to the notorious quacks who advertise in public papers, or using any quack remedies, peruse Dr. Butts' work, no matter what your disease is or how deplorable your condition.

Dr. Butts occupies a double house of twenty-seven rooms; is indorsed by some of the most celebrated medical professors of this country and Europe, and can be consulted personally or by mail, on the diseases mentioned in his works. Office and parlors, No. 12 North Eighth street, between Market and Chestnut, St. Louis, Mo.

BUSINESS ENTERPRISE.—Seldom are two qualifications so commendable as geniality and systematized business enterprise to be met with. But the possessor not only commands admiration and appreciation, but in a commercial respect very liberal support. In this connection we have especial pleasure in referring to our friend, Mr. R. R. Payne. He is too well and favorably known to require comment at our hands. The magnitude of his business and the systematized plan on which it is conducted warrant us in these remarks. His last effort to popularize himself and do good for Atlanta is to associate himself with Mr. Scarratt in the organization and management of the grand old English sports that are expected …

SUNDAY SERVICES.

Christianity's Tidal-Wave.

Refreshings from the Presence of the Lord.

He Giveth Strength to His People and Salvation to Sinners.

In the annals of the church here perhaps there is no parallel to the present religious awakening pervading the entire community. It is not restricted to any particular class or sect. The tidal-wave has swept over the city and extended to the suburbs. It has assumed a shape that promises the most gratifying results to every Christian heart. The churches in Atlanta morning and night were attended by large congregations and in nearly all deep interest was manifested by sinners for the salvation of their souls.

FIRST BAPTIST.

Rev. E. W. Warren preached in the morning an interesting sermon to moralists and at night from 1 Peter, 4th chapter, 18th verse, "And if the righteous scarcely be saved where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear."

The congregations were large and there were many enquirers. There were a number of candidates for baptism but baptism was postponed.

SECOND BAPTIST.

In the morning, Rev. Mr. Fack er preached from the text: "And they took knowledge that they had been with Jesus," Acts iv, 13 verse. At night he preached from Hebrews xi, 4, "For they that say such things declare plainly that they seek a country." The church was densely crowded at night, and many went away because they could not get in. At the conclusion of the sermon, Dr. Hickman in his eloquent style, addressed the young men of the city on the subject of intemperance.

Sixteen converts were baptised.

FOURTH BAPTIST.

The attendance was fine during the morning and evening services. In the morning, Rev. F. M Daniel, pastor, preached from Psalms 85, vi, "wilt thou not revive us again" and at night chose for his theme, "Blind Bartimeus."

SIXTH BAPTIST.

Rev. Mr Jordan, the pastor, chose for his theme in the morning, "Christ once offered for all" At night Rev G R Moor preached The attendance was full and a number asked to be prayed for.

TRINITY M E CHURCH.

The Sunday school prayer meeting at 9 o'clock was an occasion of rare interest, and some one hundred and fifty desired the prayers of the church in their behalf. Several united with the church at the morning service and a number were baptised. The pastor, Rev. W. J. Scott, preached with unction and power in the morning, and at night his sermon "on the lost soul" was eloquent and impressive. The work of grace continues in the church.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

Rev J. E. Evans preached in the morning from Luke 16 chapter taking "the rich man his character and end" for his theme. It was a sermon of great power and deeply impressive. At night the bible meeting was held.

PAYNES CHAPEL.

Rev. O L. Smith, D. D., preached in the morning to a full congregation. Rev. J. E. Evans preached at night from Hosea 6 chapter 3d verse, "Then shall we know if we follow on to know the Lord." The interest was marked.

EDGEWOOD.

The meeting at night was well attended, and much interest was manifested.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

The congregation was a large one in the morning. Rev. J H. Martin preached from Psalm 42, vii. "Deep calleth unto deep."

CENTRAL PRESBYTERIAN

The usual large congregation assembled, and listened with profound attention to the able discourse of its pastor.

ST PHILLIPS EPISCOPAL.

The spacious church was filled in the morning. Rev. R. T. Foute preached a fine discourse from Ezekiel 18, xxvii: "Again when the wicked man turneth away from his wickedness that he hath committed, and doth that which is lawful and right, he shall save his soul alive."

CHRISSIAN CHURCH.

Sunday morning, Rev F P Perdue, pastor of the Hunter street Christian church delivered a very interesting sermon from the words of the Savior as recorded in the 14th verse 15th chapter of John, a brief synopsis of which is given below:

"Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you." John 15:14

In repeating the ancient declaration, "If the Lord be God, serve him; if Baal, serve him," we indicate a purpose to-day to ascertain who here is on the Lord's side. God required his people anciently to define their position, and the Christian must ally himself with the world or with the God who made him neutrality here is impossible.

In civil governments it is not enough that men are not in armed rebellion against the power that guarantees to them liberty and the protection of life, but their allegiance must be manifest by deeds of loyalty. So it has always been in God's moral government, and so it is to-day in the kingdom of Jesus Christ. "Abraham was justified by works when he had offered Isaac, his son, upon the altar. Seest thou how faith wrought with his works, and by works was faith made perfect. And the scripture was fulfilled which saith, Abraham believed God and it was imputed to him for righteousness. Abraham, not by simply believing there was a God, and that he rewarded the diligent seeker, but by obedience to his positive law, became invested with two titles worn by no one before or since. He is called the father of the faithful and the friend of God. Jesus demands a similar manifestation of allegiance. And here the question arises, who is Christ and is he worthy of the homage of sensible, rational men? In answer to this enquiry the speaker drew a lengthy, eloquent and thrilling portraiture of the Son of God, showing Him worthy of the homage, not only of fallen men, but of the pure and spotless angels who surround the throne; and then coming back to the text he showed by argument and illustration that we proved ourselves to be the subjects of Jesus Christ by implicit obedience to his commands. "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you."

Cumberland Presbyterian.

Synopsis of a sermon by Rev. W. H. Crawford, pastor of Cumberland Presbyterian church.

Text: "Christ is all," Col. 3, ii.

Man is a creature of worship. The necessity of some kind of religion is generally admitted. But what true religion is, is very much disputed. There are many systems of religion, which often contradict each other, and yet every man flatters himself that his is the true one. How are we to determine whether they are right or wrong? The only way to determine this question is this: Bring everything in religion to this text: "Christ is all" He is the sum and substance, the Alpha and Omega, of all true religion, and every system of religion is defective wherein Christ is not all. We have in Christ all that we need in true religion. None but Christ can meet the religious wants in our nature.

Christ is all, in the worship of God, our devotions must be spiritual for "God is a spirit and seeketh such to worship him" Singing is an important part of divine service "It is good to sing praises unto our God." Singing should be "in the spirit" and "with the understanding also." It is to be feared that singing in our churches has lost much of its moral effect, and is sadly wanting—Christ is not all in our church music—everything must be sacrificed to mere musical taste. Choirs are employed and they become mere performers, and the people mere listeners. The singers sing to the congregation, not to God—and the congregation praise the singers, not God. Such musical entertainments are but a commotion in the sight of God. In singing Christ must be all. He lays his hand on the main spring of the heart and touches the musical chords in the soul and causes them to vibrate in harmony with His divine perfections, and as the sweet notes come welling up from the heart touch the tongue and tune it for His praise. If, then, the music of instruments can be made to chime in and swell the anthem as they roll, and fill the house and temple of God with sounding praise, it is well Choir or no choir, organ or no organ, Christ must be all in this indispensible branch of worship, and we can no more worship God by proxy in this than in other parts of worship. Prayer is also an important part of worship, and to be acceptable must be offered in the name of Christ. Prayer is a sense of want seeking relief from God. The publican prayed, but the Pharisee said prayers, and all prayers must be perfumed with the merits of Jesus. Preaching belongs to God's worship. The minister must not only preach, but he must preach Christ and Him crucified This theme must possess and fill his soul. Christ must be all in his sermons. Preaching like singing has become too much of an entertainment designed rather to create in man a respect for religion, instead of striving to make them new creatures in Christ Jesus; designed rather to catch and collect the rich and well to do in life, and build up a society or church instead of laboring to save their souls from hell. Preaching aimed at the heart and that would arouse the souls of men and awaken their guilty consciences is not in keeping with the taste of the present times. Men want smooth things addressed to the intellect, to the head and not to the heart. Sermons are not wanting in learning, elegance of taste, oratory, poetry, criticism, etc., but alas! in too many cases Christ is not all, … The sermon … ing, or one in which to display the excellencies and beauties of religion, he need not go to Greece or Rome or traverse oceans or scale mountains, or scrape the heavens to find such a theme; he need but go to the cross of Christ and there he will find wisdom too deep for the intellect of an angel, a theme heavenly and sublime, far beyond the power of the distinguished, of the most learned and accomplished orator. Christ must be all in our sermons, not ourselves, not the opinions of others, not the well rounded periods or rhetorical flourishes, but the simple presentation of truth in words, tone and delivery, with an earnest characteristic of one burdened with the worth of souls.

The preacher should enter the pulpit with his soul full of the presence of Christ that he may be enabled to bring forth from "his treasury things both new and old," not bring forth from his pocket a manuscript, and bore his audience with an hours reading on some moral or religious subject and leave them no better but in many cases worse than he found them. The world will never be converted by reading sermons—but by men sent of God who will cry aloud (not read aloud) and spare not and show men their sins and transgressors their doom. Christ is all in the matter of the sinners acceptance with God. Not his own words or the deeds of the law, but the righteousness of God. Being clothed with that he needs nothing else; though guilty helpless sinners if we come to Christ and believe in Him we are accepted in the beloved who is all and in all. In the matter of personal experience Christ is all, there is a felt sense of his holy presence, the joy of pardoned sin, peace with God "shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost," he knows for himself and not another that "Christ the hope of glory, is formed in him." His hope is not predicated on mere desire or something good in his training or character, but on a felt sense of Christ's love in the heart and the abiding testimony of 'God's spirit that beareth witness with his spirit that he is a child of God" This experience is sweet and most delightful because Christ is all in it.

In the christian's trials, troubles and persecutions, Christ is all to him; he gives him grace to conquer and will carry him through. Sin is the cause of all the misery in this world, if we would be happy the cause must be removed. None can do this but Christ. When he removes sin from our hearts, then we are happy. He sits up his kingdom in us. That kingdom "is righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Ghost." The christian draws all his happiness and safety from Christ. His promises are all "yea and amen" He is all to the Christian in a dying hour when all human aid fails "Jesus can make a dying bed feel soft as downy pillows are." The precious Savior enables him to triumphantly shout, 'O! death where is thy sting?" In heaven, Christ is all and in all. All the angels adore him. His presence brightens and cheers the heavenly world.

"All hail, the power of Jesus' name,
Let angels prostrate fall,
Bring forth the royal diadem,
And crown Him Lord of all."

THE BIBLE SOCIETY.

The anniversary of the Bible society was held at two churches at night.

THE CENTRAL PRESBYTERIAN.

The house was well filled. Rev. J. H. Martin conducted the introductory exercises. The report was read by S. D. McConnell, secretary.

Rev W. P. Harrison, D. D., delivered a strong and fervid address on the Bible.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH.

At this church Hon. John H. James, president, presided, Rev. W. A. Parks conducted the introductory exercises and read the report. Rev. O. L. Smith, D. D., delivered a strong and beautiful address on the Bible.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

At 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon a good audience assembled at Loyd street church to join the celebration of "children's day," by the Sunday school connected with that church. Mr. A. B. Jones, superintendent of the school, conducted the opening exercises, consisting of singing by the school the song entitled "Peace upon Earth." This was followed by prayer by the pastor, Rev. W. B. Osborn. After another song by the school the superintendent called upon Mr J. C. Kimball to make a statement of the origin and objects of the observance of "children's day."

Mr. K. stated that the last general conference of the church, held in 1872, wishing to show its deep and abiding love for, and interest in the Sunday school cause, and to impress the children with the fact that they are an important and fully recognized element in the great work of the church, set apart the second Sunday in June, to be observed each year by all the churches in the conference, as a day especially devoted to the interests of the children of the Sunday schools. Its observance is not confined to a single school, or conference, or to a single state, or county but all over the world "children's day" is recognized as one of the great days of the year. That the little school present formed a part of the great Sunday school army, embracing in its ranks not less than two millions of children, who perhaps at that very hour were celebrating this anniversary.

It was the purpose of its founders, that the day should be the time when the children of the Sunday schools should be gathered into the folds of the church, and also the day when infant children belonging to families of the church should be baptized.

Among other objects, it was resolved to take a collection on this day in all the schools to raise a "children's fund," the interest of which is to be devoted to the works of educating Sunday school children. This fund now agregates over one hundred thousand dollars.

After his remarks another song. Then a recitation of Bible verses. Then there was a baptism of two little infants. At the close of these services, another song was sung, followed by exceedingly interesting and entertaining speeches by Major Campbell Wallace, F. M. Richardson, C. E. Boynton, J C. Hendrix, H. I. Kimbal, and Rev. Mr. Osborn.

Mr. D. A Beatie, superintendent of the Central Presbyterian school, and Mr. W. A. Rawson, were called upon, but excused themselves in a few words expressive of their interest and sympathy.

A collection was then taken for the "children's fund," which seemed satisfactory, and then the congregation was dismissed with a benediction.

POMOLOGICAL.

Meeting of the Fulton County Society.

The pomological society met in the rooms of the direct trade association, Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock—vice president, Col. Robert Baugh in the chair.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The election of officers was postponed until the next meeting.

The following fruits were exhibited Mr. W. C. Robinson exhibited his white nutmeg peach, new English Beatrice peach, Herstine raspberry, May Duke cherries, red Astracan apples, Houghton's seedling gooseberry, yellow May apples.

Mr. D. R. Ladd exhibited, Astracan, Early harvest, red June, sweet, and Baugh varieties of apples; and Doyenne d'Ete, and Madaline pears.

Mr. J. Norcross exhibited Concord grapes, not ripe, but bearing evidence of rot.

The report of the fruit committee was read and approved.

After a further discussion of pear blight, the meeting adjourned.

Meeting of the Board of Trade.

On yesterday at 11 o'clock, the board met in their chamber, Mr. W. J. Garrett presiding. Mr. John Stephens called the board. A few changes were made as will be seen in our market report.

Captain Langston stated to the board that he had a communication from J. H. Edmunds, of the Republic Publishing company, of Washington city, asking for a copy of the latest annual report or other documents of the board, which would show the course of trade during any given recent period for the city and the section of which it is the natural center.

He regretted that the board had no report or document that would give the above desired information, and was often solicitous that the board would take some steps to procure statistics, preserve the same, &c. He moved that the chair appoint a committee to report some plan by which statistics and other valuable information could be gathered, and to submit the same at the next meeting of the board.

The motion prevailed, and a committee consisting of T. L. Langston, John Stephens, and L. Gholstin, were appointed.

After the transaction of some further business, the meeting adjourned.

ATLANTA A MANUFACTURING PLACE.—No city in the south, so well located, for manufacturing all styles of goods and wares as Atlanta. From this city we have competing roads running to most of our cities in Alabama, Georgia, South and North Carolina and Florida. Freights are secured at low rates to Meridian, Mississippi, Selma, Birmingham, Eufaula, Montgomery and Mobile, Alabama, Columbia and Charleston, South Carolina, Charlotte and Raleigh, North Carolina. Goods made here can be delivered at said and intermediate places at extremely low rates. In proof of this the success of the "Excelsior Steam Soap Works" of our city, under the management of Mr. J. W. Fears, bears testimony. The well known brands of soap of this establishment we see going throughout the country. Let our cotton factory be put to working, turning out goods as soon as possible.

A SENSATION ON MARIETTA STREET. Yesterday evening a gentleman passing down Marietta street, seemed very much perturbed Some thought it was a case of 'jim-jams." The agitated gentleman thought that his trouble was caused by spirits from another sphere. He shrugged his shoulders and slapped his sides, exclaiming "I feel it touch" He fervently prayed that if it was a spirit that it might be materialized Lo and behold, the prayer seemed to be granted, for down his sleeve ran a —mouse. He will carry goobers in his pockets no more.

HOW CRUEL.—"Ye local" mourneth for his pet gopher. Some inconsiderate and illiterate African caught the aforesaid pet in the woods and stew her. The children buried her, marking the spot, "Miss Sallie G Opher, slain by a ruthless assassin, in the 2nd year of her age."

TOWN TOPICS.

—A monotonous tranquility hovered over the city yesterday.

—Purifoy, one of the condemned murderers now in jail, is still wrestling in spirit and seeking the knowledge of Divine pardon.

—Yesterday the mouth of the sewer above the passenger depot did not have the odor of spring lilacs and summer roses.

—The inflated individual who swallowed John Barleycorn snoozed perspiringly near the car shed yesterday.

—A lady, a little behind hand, as usual, jumped over the cross-ties in a lively way, yesterday, and finally caught the train.

—The ambulance of the gay fisherman goeth out in the early morning now-a-days.

—A colored vendor of so called ice cream in this city has already realized about a quart of pewter nickies, and the season has just begun.

—There was music in the air out on Hunter street Sunday night, and a subscription is being taken up by the neighbors to buy that young man's fiddle for fire-wood.

—Two men met in a Decatur street car yesterday who hadn't seen each other for nine years. One of them owed the other $10 all that time, and does yet

—There are two juvenile alligators of frisky natures and two recently sprouted turtles in the basin of the Alhambra fountain.

—The market is pretty well supplied with spring chickens now, though some that are exposed for sale have about as many feathers as a grasshopper.

—Fresh peaches sell in this market at the rate of about $8 00 per bushel. It is a fruit that we are not fond of eating much of early in the season.

—Plums, green apples, and in some instances stale vegetables, were offered for sale yesterday at some places. What is to prevent the giving a series of receptions to our physicians?

—Saturday night, at about eleven o'clock the vicinity of Bell street bridge was enlivened by the stentorious voice of a negro, but whether he was preaching, making a political speech, or cussing, we don't know.

—The cotton factory is no longer within the scope of prophecy, but is a matter of fact and sober calculation. The amount made up, the lot purchased, and the president receiving bids for lumber.

—The barber-war grows hair rowing, and from the keenness with which the knights of the strap are leathering away at each other, they are in a fair way to razor row, when some of them will get scissors.

—The question agitating the colored people's debating club in this city is whether a negro born since the emancipation can claim the protection of the civil rights bill, since he never had any "previous condition."

—A young friend of ours played "hookey" from church on Sunday, but from the shouting he did in the wood-shed yesterday morning we think his father must have been holding revival services for Joseph's special benefit.

—A friend of ours who was summoned on the jury yesterday offered a reward of five dollars to the man who would come in just as court opened and tell him his mother-in-law was dangerously ill. As he has no mother in law his scheme failed.

—She lives on a fashionable street and "she never told her love," but the old gentleman found it out, and he told her that the next time that fellow came around he'd show her how his No 8 used to fly about when he went to corn shuckings.

—It may be true that nature will not suffer her distinguishing lines to be forgotten by carelessness or effaced by want of talent. Yet we defy any one to recognize the pencil of a Reynolds or a likeness of General Lee in a chalk cut on a fence on Collins street and having Robert Lee's name under it.

—We examined on yesterday a plan of the building for the cotton factory, which will doubtless be adopted. The length of the building is 236 feet, width 72 feet, five stories high with a tower at one end. There is no effort at display or anything of the kind about the building, but it is plain, substantial, possessing the modern improvements, and is well arranged for the purposes for which it is to be built.

—A negro drayman tried to back his mule and dray through a freight train at the Forsyth street crossing yesterday afternoon. Dray, mule, driver and load of flour were all piled up promiscuously, and it took two of that darkies particular friends to straighten him and the mule out again. However, no limbs were broken, and the train wasn't hurt, but the activity developed by that mule in getting away from the road was astonishing.

—A solemn-looking six foot stranger was passing along Peachtree street yesterday morning, when he suddenly spied a nickel lying on the sidewalk. The stranger stopped, adjusted his eye glasses, then bent over and reached for that nickel. But the more the stranger reached the farther away that nickel seemed to get, until at last his eyes fell upon a string, and at the other end of the string upon a small boy who was gently pulling the nickel towards him with all the symptoms of an unspeakable delight. The countenance of the stranger as he rose up was exceedingly sorrowful, and he made a dart at that small boy as if he yearned to embrace him. But the small boy evidently smelled a rat and disappeared in the adjacent store with commendable rapidity. The stranger paused, as if about to follow him, then smiled the very feeblest sort of a smile and went his way up the street with lengthy strides.

—The fire in Beau Berry's drug store yesterday morning, created fully as much of a panic overhead, as it did down stairs. There was much racing about, exclamations and some tears from the ladies, and considerable cursing from some of the gentlemen. A young grocery merchant tossed his trunk out of the second story window and was about to follow it himself when a second thought induced him to change his mind, dart through the crowd and rush down the steps with a boot under one arm and a clothes brush under the other. Dropping the trunk out of the window didn't prove a success at all. Up to yesterday afternoon, he had secured a piece of the top, one box of collars, and his sweetheart's last letter. A modest young physician, while rushing out in frantic haste, gathered up something white from the top of the steps, which he thought was a part of his wearing apparel, and when he got across the street, stopped to put it on. The unhappy young man's horror can be imagined when he discovered that the article not only didn't fit, but that it didn't belong to a gentleman at all He was so overcome that he had subsequently to be blindfolded and backed up to a pair of his own pants.

Personal Paragraphs.

—Captain John Milledge returned to the city yesterday from a visit to Virginia.

—Judge John W. O'Neal, of Gainesville, died at nine A. M. Sunday morning.

—Pulliam street continues happy in consequence of the presence of one of Cartersville's fairest daughters.

—Reese Crawford Esq., of Columbus, and Mr. S. H. Hughes, of New York, and W. S. Cowardin, of Virginia, are in the city.

—Can any one tell Mr. J. J. Trow, "where Nancy's gone?" His fine cow, the one that gave five gallons of milk per day, has disappeared.

—The types would make it Miss Fanny Taylor, whereas we wrote plainly Finny Taylor in our notice of the college girls returning from Virginia

—Col. W. M. Nichols left the city yesterday morning for New Holland. He has perfected every arrangement to make it a pleasant and attractive summer resort. The opening hop comes off on the 25th inst. Ladies are all invited. Tickets for the round trip $2 25, and good until Monday.

—Col. R. R. Bren, of Savannah, will be in the city to-day at the Kimball House Col. Bren represents, with Col Avery, that powerful life insurance company, the Connecticut Mutual, so deservedly popular among our people.

MAKING A GOOD RUN.—A director of the Georgia railroad, residing some forty miles from Atlanta, was left yesterday evening by the accommodation train. He made splendid time, and overtook the train before it reached the cemetery. It was hard to tell which blowed the most, the engine or the director.

THE movement made by the Board of Trade yesterday relative to Statistics of the Trade of the city, show that that body is waking up. A former secretary of that body proposed if the Board would furnish him with the blanks he would get them up. And now they begin to see the importance of what he then suggested.

COMING INTO TOWN.—The Central (Fourth) Baptist church has purchased a lot on the corners of Peters and Fair streets, and will soon begin the erection of a new edifice The lot is 58½x150 feet. We congratulate them on getting a more central location.

THE OXFORD LECTURES.—The Oxford lectures will be resumed next Friday evening. Rev. A. Means, D. D, will deliver the opening lecture at Oxford, followed by other interesting exercises.

EXPERIMENTAL TRIP.—Col. E. P. Howell left for Duluth yesterday, as an experimental trip before leaving for California. We pity the poor cattle he mistakes for buffaloes.

COMPREHENSIVE.—Debry's history of the United States is one of the most compact, comprehensive and complete works of the day, well adapted to the want it is intended to supply.

J. F MORRIS.—Mr. J. F. Morris lost above insurance some $3,000. The young man who was sleeping in the store escaped, leaving all his clothing inside.

READY MADE CLOTHING.—Mayson & Norman will commence to-day the sale of ready-made clothing at 9 A. M. Go and get into a good habit.

EMBRY is now monarch of the retail ice trade. He will now furnish lake or manufactured ice for the same price. Keep Ko. I.

THE BRUNSWICK & ALBANY R. R.

Judge O. A. Lochrane's Version of the Lockett Case.

The Suit for Three Quarters of a Million not Ended.

The Brunswick Appeal, in its last issue, publishes an article under the heading "A Big Scheme Spoiled," in which it indulges in some congratulations over the defeat of Col B. G. Lockett's suit for $750,000 damages, against the Brunswick & Albany rail road company. The Appeal presents some facts concerning the litigation over the bond required from Col. Lockett, being for $1,500,000, among the sureties on which were our citizens Hons. Joseph E. Brown and O. A. Lochrane, and the result, which was the dismissal of the suit on account of the insufficiency of the bond.

Desiring to present the status of the case as nearly as possible, a CONSTITUTION reporter yesterday called upon Judge Lochrane, who he found in his happiest mood and from whom he gleaned the following particulars:

EARLY HISTORY OF THE AFFAIR.

Reporter.—Judge, will you be kind enough to give THE CONSTITUTION a statement of this matter?

Judge L.—(After reading the Appeal article) O! yes; I shall be happy to do so, and can in a very few moments. The circumstances out of which the trouble and suit arose were about as follows:

The German bondholders who bought the road, had, as their agent, Mr. De Neufville, of New York, who appeared himself as a prominent creditor, holding bonds to the amount of some $484,000, and who also purchased the road, taking titles to himself, as agent for the purchasers, some time in the summer of 1874. Mr. De Neufville desired to have an arrangement with Col. Lockett to get him to control the road, and after several interviews and attempts to lease the road, finally, in November De Neufville entered into a contract with Lockett agreeing to give him 50 per cent of all he could obtain in settlement of the claim he held against the state on account of its endorsement of the first mortgage bonds of the road.

THE CONTRACT UNCONDITIONED.

This agreement was unconditional, and so telegraphed the same day it was executed to the Frankfort committee by Mr De Neufville. The agreement contained two clauses submitted for ratification, to wit: "taking up the iron" and "leasing" but the contract to give 50 per cent. was absolute. Mr. De Neufville desired Lockett to come to Georgia organize measures and secure the aid of men essential to carry out the claim upon the state This Lockett did at once, entering into written contracts, binding himself for large sums of money, and paying out money to accomplish the purpose. When Lockett in advance of his friends, he found a dispatch from M. de Neufville, telling him to consider the preliminary arrangements cancelled. To this Lockett replied that he had a solemn contract, spent money and incurred obligations to carry it out, and if prevented, he wanted it done by de Neufville as the agent of the parties making it, etc. After some three days telegraphing, de Neufville finally telegraphed that he had just heard from Frankfort all right. When Lockett, supposing all was right, went ahead, spent more money, and incurred more obligations, and returned instantly to southwestern Georgia.

CAME TO ATLANTA

ANOTHER SURPRISE.

On his next return to Atlanta, to his surprise, he found a letter from M. de Neufville, absolutely cancelling the contract. Upon which Lockett notified him that he would hold the property liable for his actual outlay, obligations and expenses incurred under their contract.

This ended the controversy by telegraph, when Mr. Lockett applied to Judge Lochrane to employ him as counsel to bring suit. The judge declined, on the ground that he had been the counsel of the bondholders. Then Lockett employed Mr. B. H. Hill, paying him a large cash fee, and also employed Col. Smith, of Albany. An attachment was issued in which the bond for security covered a very large amount. The judge of the court then presiding approved the bond, but subsequently before his successor a motion was made to dismiss the attachments.

THE PRESENT STATUS.

Mr. Lockett, unwilling to put all his friends on the bond, offered to write off the damages claimed down to $100,000. This the judge held he could not do, as a matter of amendment, and this decision has been carried to the supreme court. In the meantime Mr. Lockett has his papers prepared to attach for that amount in case the supreme court should decide this technical question against him. Of one thing we are assured, that the litigation has only commenced

THE CITY COURT.

Lively Criminal Session.

Judge Cowart after Vagrants, Thieves, Etc

The city court met yesterday at 8 o'clock, his honor Judge R J. Cowart filling the chair with his usual dignity.

The call of cases on the criminal docket was taken up, and before court adjourned, the learned judge had made the fur fly from more than one unfortunate darkey.

The first case was against one Mr. Moore, who is charged with the heinous crime of adultery. The prisoner went to trial with Hon. M. A. Candler for the defence. The jury brough in a verdict of guilty. The defendant was sentence to pay a fine of 20 and costs, or go to the chain gang for eight months.

State vs Robert Thomas. Larceny from the house. The defendant was tried by the court, and found not guilty. Finley for defence.

State vs Jennie Smith. Vagrancy. This defendant was tried by the court, and found not guilty. Finley for defence.

State vs. Lizzie Pearson. Vagrancy. This defendant allowed to take a verdict of not guilty. J. C. Jones for defence.

State vs. Coley Beavers. Keeping a gambling table. Sentenced $50 and costs, or chain-gang for six months.

State vs Dan Key and Chance Wood Simple larceny. Charge of stealing a lot of corn and oats from the stable of L P. Baker & Co. Verdict guilty. Sentence suspended.

Court then adjourned until eight o'clock this morning when the bond cases will be called up.

The Magistrates.

Mr. George Anderson, whose arrest by the police for shooting at a negro named Brown Saturday night, we have already noticed, was tried yesterday morning before Justice Butt. As the provocation had been considerable, the magistrate thought that the ends of justice would be satisfied by holding the prisoner to answer the offense of assault and battery. He was accordingly required to give a bond of $200. Mr. Hoke Smith appeared for the prosecution, and Judge Daniel Pittman for defendant.

Another Fire.

This morning shortly after the hour of one, one of the compositors of THE CONSTITUTION office saw a gleam of light shoot up near by, and with stentorian voice cried out, "Fire." With lightning-like rapidity the flame increased in volume until the town was luminous with its light, and spires and vanes glistened like molten gold in its beams.

The fire was first seen in the roof of a wooden building on Whitehall street, wedged in between James bank and James bank block. It was an old building, and being dry, caught like tinder The flames shot up in mid air, and the heat grew intense. Nothing but the heavy brick walls on either side saved the adjoining buildings. A window in James' bank block was left open, and the heat broke out the glass, but no further damage was done to the building.

The upstairs was occupied by Mr. Kuhn, daguerrian artist. One part of down stairs was occupied by Mr. Speigle, Jr., music &c., and the other by Mr. Speigle, Sr., as dry goods store. A portion of the goods were removed, but were in a damaged condition. The building was owned, we believe, by Dr. N. L. Angier and V. A. Gaskill.

Mr. P. A. Farrington, engraver, occupied a room over the novelty store. The fire was first discovered in Farrington's room.

Mr. Speigle and his family sleep in rear of his store.

Mr. Speigle, Sr., was insured for $6,000. His stock was valued at $9,000. He was insured with Messrs. Putnam & Haskill. Mr. Speigle, Jr, was not insured.

The building is reported to be insured for $2,000.

The fire companies were all out and did splendid service.

Revival Notes.

The meeting at James' Hall, yesterday evening, was deeply interesting There was a full attendance.

Prayers were offered by Revs. Jordan and Daniel and John H James. J. T. M'g[illegible]e read the scriptures and delivered a fervent exhortation. Brief and touching remarks were made by ten or twelve, being young converts and several having served the Lord from 18 to 30 years. "All stood up for Jesus." Among them was a widow 80 years who talked sweetly of her trust in Jesus. Sixty rose up in the audience and indicated their desire to be saved.

The meeting will continue there during the week.

THE next issue of the Sunny South will contain an engraving of Hon. H. V. Johnson with a sketch of his life written by Judge R. H. Clarke.

THE Annual Meeting of the Atlanta Benevolent Association takes place this after…

FIFTH BAPTIST FESTIVAL.

A Splendid Hall and Fine Attractions.

Let all Attend To-Night.

The Benevolent society of the Fifth Baptist church have a festival in the store on the corner of Forsyth and Alabama streets, formerly occupied by Messrs. Abbott and Bro.

The store is finely adapted for while the tables in the center are filled with all that can satisfy the palate.

Miss Emma Paris and Miss Lula Edwards are the contestants for the crown of Love and Beauty. Both are worthy of it and the voting will be spirited. The house will be crowded to-night. Remember it is at the corner of Alabama and Forsyth streets.

A BOOK FOR THE MILLION.

Marriage Guide. A Private Counselor to the Married, or those about to marry, on the physiological mysteries and revelations of the sexual system, with the latest discoveries in the science of reproduction, preserving the complexion, &c.

This is an interesting work of two hundred and sixty pages, with numerous engravings, and contains valuable information for those who are married or contemplate marriage; still it is a book that ought to be kept under lock and key, and not left carelessly about the house.

It contains the experience and advice of a physician whose reputation is world-wide, and should be in the private drawer of every male and female throughout the entire globe. It embraces everything on the subject of the generative system that is worth knowing, and much that is not published in any other work.

Sent to any one (free of postage) for Fifty Cents.

Address Dr. Butts' Dispensary, No. 12 N. Eighth street, St. Louis, Mo.

Notice to the Afflicted and Unfortunate.

Before applying to the notorious quacks who advertise in public papers, or using any quack remedies, peruse Dr. Butts' work, no matter what your disease is or how deplorable your condition.

Dr. Butts occupies a double house of twenty-seven rooms; is indorsed by some of the most celebrated medical professors of this country and Europe, and can be consulted personally or by mail, on the diseases mentioned in his works. Office and parlors, No. 12 North Eighth street [illegible]

WHEN A WOMAN IS OLD.

What shall I do when I am old? you say.
Do you think I shall wish in vain
To recall the words I have said to-day
When I spoke my thoughts so plain?
Do you think I shall wish in my guileless lot
That I had your wealth though I loved you not?

I can picture a woman, aged and poor,
Toiling for daily bread,
Recalling hopes she can wake no more,
Remembering flowers that are dead,
And thinking sometimes when her heart beats low,
Of a happier youth-time long ago!

I can picture her treading a lowly way
Through a land whence summer has flown,
Bearing life's crosses from day to day,
And dying at last alone,
With never a friend or a kindred face
To follow her dust to its resting place!

I can fancy this; but I know to her heart
Shall never a wish come nigh
That she had chosen the easier part
Of wealth she had bought with a lie,
And bartered her faith—a sordid thing—
For fear of the sorrow that age might bring.

BREVITIES.

—"Perspitorial kisses" is the new style.

—Who'd have thought it! Patti only thirty-two.

—Leland Stanford of California is said to be worth twenty millions.

—Old man Lick has now revoked his intention to die altogether and has the appetite of a hired man.

—It is estimated that there are over 800 tons of old rubber shoes manufactured into car-springs in Boston annually.

—It takes twenty tons of violets and one hundred and ninety tons of orange blossoms to last the perfumes of Cannes and Nice a year.

—When you go to Florida just stuff your old clothes with straw and throw them to the alligators, and you'll see how they'd treat you if you were in them.

—There are three or four hundred American girls in Milan learning to sing, in consideration of which Providence kindly exempts Milan from the presence of cats.

—A Titusville woman named her cat "Love" and her bird "Sweet," and the cat ate poor little "Sweet." There's no nonsense about a cat.

—New York is growing alarmingly numerous. Here is the school census showing over 107,000 children aged between eight and fourteen. What an army of little folks.

—A goose twenty-one years of age has just died in Pennsylvania. She had resided in four counties, and is believed to have once contributed something to a Pittsburg paper.

—Suspecting that a murder had been committed, the Brooklyn police dug into a little grave. At the bottom they found, wrapped in an American flag, the cold, stark body of a poodle dog.

—The lead in lead pencils is not lead at all, though it is called black lead. The weight, if nothing else, tells you that. It is a mineral, called graphite, (from the Greek word, to write,) and is more nearly related to coal than lead.

—Lewis, the funny man of the Free Press, has reached the pinnacle of fame. His picture has got into the Graphic. He resembles a reformed lightening-rod peddler, and looks very serious about it indeed.

Atlanta Wholesale Price Current

[CORRECTED DAILY.]
CONSTITUTION OFFICE,
Atlanta, Ga., June 14, 1875

REMARKS.—There is nothing of interest transpiring in financial circles. Currency is reported as easy where the proper paper is offered.

Our local securities are dull and quiet. Business moves along pretty much in accordance with the actual requirements of the masses for the necessaries of life, and though the usual summer dullness is setting upon the markets, the volume of transactions, with the exception of meats, is not far from the average at this period of the year.

The provision market is quiet. Tierce lard was priced a little lower during the week. The meat business of the week was not up to the general average of transactions for the season, the market exhibited a rather dull condition.

The cotton market has remained quiet during the week. It closed weak Saturday night at 14¼ cents.

There is nothing new whatever to report in the grain market. Every branch of the trade seems to have remained rather quiet. We quote the markets as being unchanged.

Trade in the dry goods line seems to have settled down into its usual state of summer dullness. Most of the moderate business which at present exists, is done upon orders.

The grocery trade quiet, and quotations substantially the same as heretofore given.

There is a good supply of country produce in market. During the week a slight decline in chickens and eggs.

BOOTS & SHOES.

I. T. BANKS

KEEPS THE BEST

Quality, and the greatest variety of Boots and Shoes ever made for the understanding of men, women and children. His goods are of the best material, and of the highest grade of workmanship, free from the shoddy composition contained in lower class goods, and prices are guaranteed to all, who pay Cash. His stock of

THE CHEAPEST

BOOTS & SHOES

for Spring and Summer wear is ample and complete, and young ladies and gents can find no where goods that will fit so nicely, and make their feet look so pretty. He sells so low his Leven Calf that all Shoe-makers have to laugh when his prices are made known. His Hemlock Sole and White-Oak, too, are so dirt cheap they will not do any first-class work without it. The Harness-makers look surprised and with amazement open their eyes to find his harness priced so far below the quotations in Baltimore. Merchants, when goods are priced to them, see how duped they have been, by credit price, then whispering awhile in private talk, boldly proclaim THESE PRICES BEAT NEW YORK. His goods are low and they must go, if at prices they cost him; for he knows full well that he can sell his goods at lower figures than credit stores can presume to buy their goods in market.

Call at No. 67 Whitehall street and examine goods and prices.

TO THE CITY TAX PAYERS.

AT the last meeting of the Mayor and General Council they require of me, by ordinance, to open my books for the payment of taxes on the first day of June next, and to close them promptly on the twentieth day of August next. I am further ordered (in consideration of the fact that the Finance Committee will be compelled to pay about sixty thousand dollars interest on or about the first of July, and under the new city charter the committee can not borrow a dollar after that day, and as it is important, for the sake of the credit of the city, to raise the sixty thousand dollars on or before the first day of July), as a further inducement to tax payers to come up promptly, to allow 2½ per cent. discount on all taxes paid between the first day of June and the fifth day of July. I hope that all those who intend to take advantage of the 2½ per cent. will not wait until the last day, which will be the fourth of July, for it will be impossible for me to wait on them all and yet I will have to close the books, and thus leave out many who might desire to pay. Respectfully, J. O. HARRIS.

A CARD.

WASHINGTON, D C., May 29, 1875.

P. C. Sawyer, Macon, Ga.:

DEAR SIR In answer to your inquiry we would say that you hold by United States grant, a cotton gin roll box which combines a front with interior curve, and curved ribs, the three forming a major part of a circle in said roll box, and that you have the exclusive right to make, to use and to sell said roll box under said grant.

Any one selling, or buying, or using said roll that is constructed with these three elements in its construction, except from you or your authorized agent, is liable to prosecution for the violation of your rights.
